BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

MR. HOOVER is catching trout in Oregon.

Governor Smith is catching kingfish and swimming in the ocean off Long Island.

It is the lull before the political storm. And it will be a real storm when it starts, with new features.

• • •

REPUBLICANS realize that they will have a hard fight ahead in New York state. Already it is announced that Hughes and Borah will stump New York in October. The big guns will be used for the hard fighting.

• • •

Only 20 years old, Kamensky confessed he killed Dr. Gerald Kelly, because the latter had advised the amputation of Kamensky's leg, injured in a mine accident.

• • •

WHEN he found he couldn't work as a miner, Kamensky became a murderer for revenge. He hobbled to the electric chair yesterday morning on crutches.

That was the novelty.

• • •

GENE TUNNEY, whom certain prize fight "fans" don't like, because he has brains and they haven't, will retire from the ring. That, it is said, will "hurt the game," which is too bad. No matter what champion they may develop to collect money from fools, it can never be proved that he could have beaten Tunney.

• • •

TUNNEY, you read, "is going to Paris to study philosophy." An excellent place. The Sorbonne is well equipped.

But the important thing is to BE a philosopher, not merely a study of other philosophers.

If Tunney can take his $2,000,000 quickly earned out of prize fighting, and stay out, he will have proved himself a real philosopher.

• • •

MR. EASTMAN, king of all kinds of photography, announces perfected moving pictures in colors. With that announcement, pictures reach full development MOTION, COLOR, SOUND.

Now you will see the heroine or the vampire's rolling eyes, hear the voices that lure men to their doom. The moving picture stage will show all that the living stage can show.

Talking movies will put a premium on intelligence. A cultivated voice indicates a cultured mind, and cannot be created overnight.

• • •

SCIENCE offers an idea to prohibition enforcement. It is not necessary to break down the speakeasy door. Simply shoot a little gas, the right kind, through the keyhole, and all the speakeasyites will come hurrying out of their own accord. The place would be uninhabitable for a month. And the gas is guaranteed not to kill the speakeasy customers.

• • •

THAT is one way to discourage bootlegging. The simpler way is to jail the bootleggers' customers. The bootlegger can square things with police and the prohibition officials. But the millions of bootlegger customers couldn't do it. Jail the man who buys alcohol and you will stop the buying.

• • •

AND that would be done if the country really meant to stop the traffic. In New York you look out of a window on a rainy day and see small boys with umbrellas standing at the curb ready to escort ladies and gentlemen from their taxicab to any one of half a dozen speakeasies' basement doors.

The small boys, collecting their dimes, know where the speakeasies are. The police MIGHT find out if they were interested. So could government officials.

• • •

MORE discipline yesterday for the little fish that WILL persist in stock speculation. The price of "call money" was put up to six per cent and the fear of a seven or eight per cent rate sent the poor in spirit scurrying to unload.

• • •

RETAIL trade in New York is up. Wholesale business drops, not because of less selling, but because of chain stores, every day more powerful, buy direct from factories, going over the heads of wholesalers and jobbers.

Not good for the latter, but if eliminating the middleman eliminates one profit, paid by the consumer, the consumer will not complain.

THE American Federation of Labor's official organ announces that unemployment is diminishing. The number of organized wage earners out of work decreased two per cent in twenty-four cities during June as compared with May.

STRIKERS DEFY OFFICIALS AND PICKET MILLS

Ten Thousand Gather at Jail and Jeer as 256 Are Arrested

CHILDREN ARE VICTIMS

Pathetically Roam Streets Crying for Parents; Militia Called Out

New Bedford, Mass., July 31—Again defying the order of city authorities, picketing of the 56 textile mill units here were continued today.

While 256 strike pickets and their sympathizers were awaiting court arraignment by yelling and singing in their cells at police headquarters—eight and 10 being lodged in a single cell—the picket lines moved back and forward in front of the mill gates. At the Whitman mill 300 pickets and their sympathizers were out, 100 were at the gates of the Acushnet mill, smaller delegations marched in front of the other mills. Police predicted wholesale arrests late this afternoon.

City authorities had ruled that a single individual could go on picket duty at each mill but that more than that constituted a violation of the laws regarding loitering and especially that ordinance regarding parading without a permit.

Children Tragic Figure

The strike, called in protest to a 10 per cent wage cut, was in its sixteenth week and there was talk of arbitration on both sides.

Children of those arrested, some of them roaming the streets crying for their parents, were the pathetic figures among the police clubs and fixed bayonets of national guardsmen as the patrols went up and down the principal streets keeping order following a hectic night.

Meanwhile, the Childrens Aid society and other agencies were busy picking up the stray children and caring for them until their parents could be with them again.

Six children of a striker were found on the steps of police headquarters. Tears dimmed all eyes except that of the two-months-old baby and he was fast asleep. The mother had been arrested and the father could not be found. The children's aid society came to the rescue of the little brood.

Begin Arresting Pickets

Throughout the night Policewoman Myrtle E. Cody was busy answering calls of children alone and afraid in their homes. At one home Policewoman Cody on her errand of mercy was thrown against a stove by a mother who thought that the policewoman had come to take her children away. A call for aid was sent to police headquarters. Meanwhile, other women in the house had gathered and Policewoman Cody literally had to fight her way out.

The trouble began last night when city authorities accepted the challenge of the textile mills committee, the so-called radical wing of the strike, and

20 TO LEAVE FOR CAMP WEDNESDAY

Local Salvation Army Group Going to Greenwood Lake; Plan Wedding Event

Interest in the Salvation Army camp meeting for young people which opens Wednesday at Greenwood Lake, Delaware, centers locally in the marriage of Lt. Clarabelle Kelley and Capt. Robert Atkinson, formerly of this city, scheduled for Aug. 13. The camp program is featured each year by the marriage of two Salvation Army workers.

Lieutenant Kelly, now located at Martins Ferry, and Captain Atkinson, of the Columbus Salvation Army headquarters, both began their work in this city.

About 20 local Salvation Army workers, including Capt. and Mrs. Percy Holden, will leave Wednesday for camp. Capt. William Killoch, until recently head of the local Salvation Army work, will act as camp bandmaster and Mrs. Killoch as matron.

Principal speakers for the camp will be Col. and Mrs. Walter Jenkins and daughter, Adj. Dorothy Jenkins, and Dr. Lyle Rader of New York City.

Attorney General Candidate Assails Utilities Companies

Columbus, July 31—Bitterly assailing certain utilities companies and alleging they were interested in seeing either Myers Y. Cooper or James T. Begg elected governor, Matthew L. Bigger, a candidate for attorney general, today came out in support of Edward C. Turner for governor.

Certain utilities interests would "crucify Turner in order that these great utilities may rule unmolested," Bigger said, at the same time acknowledging the antagonism which his stand for Turner might engender.

Bigger is a native of [illegible], O., but has practiced law here for the last 35 years.

123 DIVORCE CASES DECIDED IN YEAR BY COUNTY COURT HERE

Gross Neglect and Desertion Lead as Chief Basis of Suits, Annual Report of Clerk Shows; Decrees Granted Exceed Record of Preceding Year by 12

One hundred and twenty-three divorce cases were decided by Judge George B. Scofield in the Marion county common pleas court in the year from June 30, 1927, to June 30, 1928, according to the annual report just completed by Harley E. Koons, clerk of courts.

While only 111 divorce cases were filed during the year, 35 were carried over from the preceding year. Twenty-three cases were pending when the records were closed on June 30.

By far the greater number of divorces were granted on grounds of gross neglect or desertion, the records show. During the last year 104 divorces were granted on these grounds. Cruelty was the grounds in 15 and adultery in four.

The year ending last June led the previous year by 12 divorces granted.

75 Suits by Wives

Seventy-five divorce suits filed last year were brought by the wife. Thirty-six were brought by the husband. In 33 cases husbands charged gross neglect. Two charged adultery and one cruelty. Fifty-eight wives charged their husbands with neglect, 15 charged cruelty, one adultery and one filed miscellaneous charges.

Alimony was allowed wives in 19 cases. In cases brought by the husband, 26 were granted divorces, seven were refused and nine were dismissed. Fifty-four suits brought by the wife were granted, 46 being on grounds of gross neglect. Four cases brought by the wife were refused and 23 dismissed.

Twenty-seven children were involved in divorce proceedings in common pleas court last year, according to the report. Custody of two was given to the fathers and 25 were awarded to the mothers.

578 Suits Filed

Out of a total of 578 cases of all kinds filed in common pleas court during the year, 541 were disposed of. Many of the latter, however, were carried over from the previous year. A total of 189 cases were pending in the court on June 30.

Twenty-one decisions of Judge Scofield were appealed to the district court of appeals at Lima. The court decided 14 cases carried up from the county court, a number being appealed during the previous year. Seventeen cases appealed from the Marion county court were pending in the appellate court on June 30.

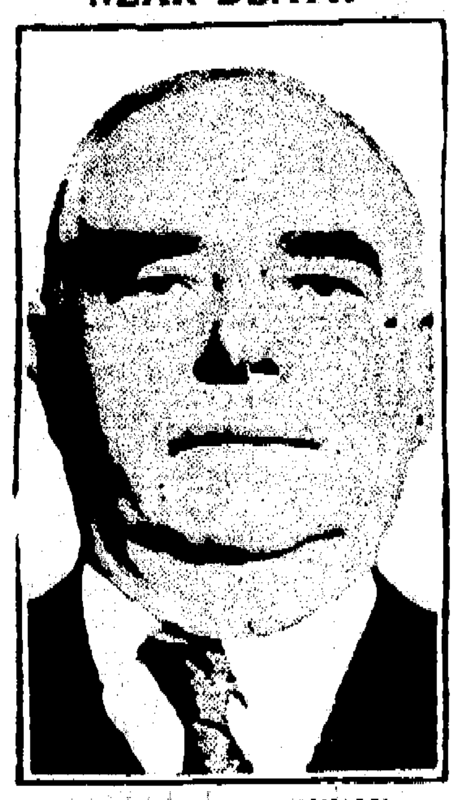

The common pleas court returned 203 civil judgments which are not included in the total number of cases filed. Money involved in these judgments totelled $332,223.70, the average amount of each judgment being $1,636.57.

Only two fines were assessed in the court during the year and only one of these was collected in cash. The other was served out in jail. Both fines were for $25.

For jury fees alone the common pleas court cost the county $2,7[illegible].07. Fees for grand jurors amounted to $440.25. Petit juries in civil cases

NEAR DEATH

GEORGE E. BRENNAN

GEORGE E. BRENNAN DYING IN CHICAGO

Septic Poison Spreads to Glands of Throat; Family at Bedside

Chicago, July 31—George E. Brennan, Democratic committeeman for Illinois and close friend of presidential nominee Al Smith, today was reported near death from septic poisoning.

He was stricken last Thursday following the extraction of two ulcerated teeth. The poison spread to the glands of his throat. This condition became further complicated by diabetes and pneumonia, according to his physicians.

After a consultation of six prominent surgeons an emergency operation was performed last night to remove some of the poison gathered in the lymphatic gland.

Oxygen was being administered today to keep the stricken leader alive. Because of his age—63 — physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

Last rites of the Catholic Church were administered before the operation. Mr. Brennan remains conscious and realizes he is fighting death. Gathered at his bedside are his wife and only child, a daughter, Mary, and several friends, including former Mayor William E. Dever.

ENGLAND, FRANCE IN LIMITATION PACT

Opinion Advanced That Agreement May Solve Disarmament Problem

Geneva, July 31—Announcement has been made in the British house of commons that England has made an agreement with France for limitation of naval armaments as an important step towards peace and disarmament. Coming at the same time as the United States pact to outlaw war and two developents were hailed as inter-linking.

The opinion was advanced that the Anglo-French agreement may go far towards solving the whole disarmament problem.

"The United States always sustained the French views on naval limitation, the Anglo-French agreement will make a solution easy," a League of Nations official told International News Service.

The naval agreement and the American anti-war treaty were expected to play an important part in the discussions when the league assembly meets here next month.

SEE BUMPER CORN CROP FOR MARION COUNTY

Prospects Best Within Last 10 Years, Farming Districts Report

GROWTH IS RAPID

Wheat Output Reported Small, but of Good Quality; Harvesting Starts

After starting in the spring under one of the most serious handicaps experienced in this section of the state in years, the corn crop in Marion county has made such strides in the last month that farmers today are saying prospects for a bumper crop are better than at any time in the last 10 years.

Belief that nothing can now stop harvesting of one of the largest corn crops in years, is being expressed by farmers of the county.

The unusually cold, wet spring played havoc with the crop and farmers were extremely pessimistic over the outlook when suddenly there developed a season of growing weather that has established a record for rapid growth of corn. That the corn grew as much as two inches in one day, was the belief expressed today by one farmer.

Wheat of Good Quality

Wheat that had been left standing is also making a creditable showing. J. J. Curl, of the Marion Grain & Supply Co., stated today. New wheat began arriving at the elevator last week, Mr. Curl said, and while the volume is small the quality, on the whole, is about equal with that of other years.

Occasionally, farmers are too hasty in threshing immediately after a rain. Wheat threshed under those conditions is of poorer quality than the average, but wheat threshed when dry is about equal in quality with that of other years.

Barley is also good, Mr. Curl states. While practically all of the barley has been cut, there has been little threshed and consequently but little is coming on the local market. Elevators in Marion County were paying 62 cents today for good barley.

Practically all oats in Marion county is cut, although but little has been threshed, a survey shows.

Demonstrate New Machine

One of the few fields remaining uncut is at the Lincoln Smith farm, Fairground rd., and this has been reserved for the purpose of demonstrating one of the new combination cutting and threshing machines being introduced in Marion county this year.

The demonstration at the Smith farm was scheduled to start this afternoon. The machine cuts the stalks just below the head and threshes out the grain, depositing it in sacks. These machines are being used in Marion county this year for the first time and farmers are optimistic over results achieved in other counties.

Garden crops and small fruits, with the exception of black raspberries and cherries, were reported to be usually bountiful this year. The same growing weather that has brought the corn crop up to the best prospects in years, has also produced large crops in the gardens.

400 EXPECTED AT CONVENTION HERE

Registration for National Fraternity Meet Started by Committee

Registration of both local and out-of-town members for the Kappa Alpha Phi national convention to be held here Aug. 19-23, is in progress and plans for entertaining the delegates are nearing completion, it was announced by local committeemen today. An attendance of nearly 400 Kappas is expected at the annual meeting.

Hotel Harding will serve as convention headquarters. Plans are being formulated at the present time for a private Kappa Alpha Phi dance at Crystal Lake park during the convention period.

Speakers for the convention will be largely national officers and workers. Election of national officers for the coming year will feature the business sessions.

Arrangements for the meeting are being made locally by an entertainment committee, comprised of Paul Piersol and Roscoe Rank.

Marion was also the scene of a national Kappa Alpha Phi convention six years ago.

If Marie should become ruling queen, Michael would be proclaimed her successor. If she became queen-regent, she would rule in the name of Michael.

Peasant leaders who formerly supported the return of Carol have now turned against him on account of his conduct abroad.

WHITE REGRETS CHARGES MADE AGAINST SMITH

Kansas Editor Withdraws Some Accusations and Modifies Others

WOULD "FIGHT FAIR"

Says Democratic Nominee Entitled to Square Treatment

New York, July 31—Following the publication this morning of a review of the legislative record of Gov. Al Smith while he was a member of the New York legislature in which William Allen White, Kansas editor, charged Governor Smith had voted consistently with Tammany to protect the saloon, gambling and vice, White today issued a statement modifying and withdrawing some of his charges.

White's statement was as follows:

"Yesterday talking to Walter Lippmann of the World, a friend of Governor Smith and of mine for many years, I learned that Governor Smith was deeply aggrieved that I should charge him with protecting gambling and prostitution in his assembly record. I can understand after considering what Mr. Lippmann said that the governor in casting those votes against those reform bills might honestly have felt that the bills were unconstitutional or were not enforcible or infringed upon personal liberty or encouraged police blackmail.

Tries to Fight Fair

"These bills did not so impress others who voted for the bills but Governor Smith certainly is entitled to fair treatment. I always have tried to fight fair. I have never consciously questioned any man's motives and so this morning before the morning papers have come and before I know what, if any, reply Governor Smith has made to my statement I desire to withdraw the charges formally insofar as they

WOMAN COLLAPSES AS HOME IS AFIRE

Mrs. Walter Sipe Overcome by Shock During Second Blaze in Three Days

Shock resulting from fire having broken out in her home twice within a period of three days caused Mrs. Walter Sipe, 133 South Vine st., to faint early last night when firemen from the central fire station arrived to extinguish a blaze in the attic of the Sipe home. She suffered a second fainting spell during the night and her condition this morning was reported as unfavorable.

Shortly before 7:30 last night neighbors discovered smoke coming from the windows in the attic, which had been broken out during a fire Saturday afternoon and called the fire department. Firemen from the central station found the sheeting to which the roof slate is fastened, on fire. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals with no loss.

The cause of the fire is a mystery, as the wires which had caused the first blaze Saturday afternoon, had been removed and apparently every spark had been extinguished. That a spark had lodged between the sheeting and the slate where it had smouldered until bursting into flame last night, is thought to have been a possible cause.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN TRAFFIC CRASH

Mrs. John Wilmes Most Seriously Hurt as Cars Collide East of Marion

Mrs. John Wilmes, 29, of 233 Ballentine av., suffered a slight fracture of the skull and two severed arteries in her right arm in an automobile collision about 7:30 o'clock last night at the intersection of the Claridon pk. and Columbus-Sandusky rd., five miles east of here. Three other occupants of the Wilmes car sustained minor injuries and John Wilmes, Jr., aged 6, escaped uninjured.

Occupants of the car with which the Wilmes machine collided, whose names could not be learned, also escaped without injury.

Mrs. Wilmes was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to City hospital. Her condition is not regarded as serious.

The accident occurred when the Wilmes machine, a Gray sedan driven by John Wilmes, was struck by the other car, a Buick sedan with a woman driver. The Wilmes car was coming towards Marion on the Claridon pk. and the Buick was being driven south on the Columbus-Sandusky rd. The Gray sedan was wrecked.

Others injured were Mrs. A. F. McAndrew and son, William McAndrew, of 233 Ballentine av., who were riding with Mr. Wilmes. Mrs. McAndrew sustained broken ribs and body bruises and Mr. McAndrews injuries to his back. Mr. Wilmes received injuries to his right hand.

No Contender Capable of Attracting Large Purse, He Declares

PLANS ARE INDEFINITE

Retiring Champion Will Give Championship Belt to Tourney Winner

New York, July 31—Gene Tunney is through with boxing. He said so himself today.

The long expected announcement materialized at a luncheon given boxing writers at the Biltmore by Tunney.

Gene stated his reasons very fully. There is no contender capable of attracting a large purse; it would be two or three years before another is developed and that is too long for him to wait, and so "he steps aside."

"May the best man win," he says in his swan song.

"To the victor belongs the spoils," he echoes, and that may mean the return of the redoubtable Dempsey, but Gene doesn't say that.

To show his admiration for the game that brought him from a humble shipping clerk to the estate of a millionaire, Gentleman Gene will offer a championship belt to go to the winner of an elimination tourament.

Future Indefinite

As to his future plans Tunney is less definite. He is still young, and will start anew in another "line of business." Whether this business is to be matrimony, the stage, films, stocks and bonds or the pursuit of literary endeavors, he fails to state.

Admiration for the game and a bow in the direction of Tex Rickard are other features of this quite unique retirement communique.

If he were to fight again (and they say they all do come back) [illegible] would be the [illegible] Rickard, whom he calls the game's foremost promoter. He acknowledges a debt of gratitude to the fistic impresario who made him and borne himself out of the fight picture with the boxer's traditional "good luck."

"Boxing is a game which, properly conducted, teaches and develops such

Songs Old and New

ON WEDNESDAY'S PROGRAM

Feature Radio Bill

Two decades ago when college boys wore peg-top trousers and turtle-neck sweaters, there was a popular song often heard under the windows of the village belle. It was "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland." This same air will be broadcast at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night by the Sylvania Singers, a male quartet, over the National Broadcasting System.

In direct contrast to the love song of 20 years ago will be the jazz classic, "Twelfth Street Rag," a still lively ancestor of modern dance music. This number will be played by Torre and Biviano as a violin and accordian specialty.

Other songs on the Foresters' program include, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie", "Smilin' Through" and "A Kiss in the Dark."

"Miss Dolly Dollars," a musical comedy in two acts by Victor Herbert, will be offered during the Philco hour to be broadcast at 8 o'clock Wednesday night over the National Broadcasting System.

Beethoven and Ambroise Thomas are represented in the 30-minute program to be broadcast over the National Broadcasting system at 7 o'clock Wednesday night by the National mixed quartet.

The fascinating "Polovetzian Dances" from Prince Igor has been selected as the orchestral feature, in the Palmolive hour to be heard over the National Broadcasting system at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

"JANE AND JOHN" ON GRAND THEATER BILL

Popular Players Booked for Last Three Days of This Week

With a complete change of program including a comedy skit and mystery farce, "Jane and John" Adair will be in Marion, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week for a return engagement at the Grand theater.

"Jane and John" appeared here several weeks ago in a comedy skit, "Isn't It True?" it being their first engagement in Marion in several years. They won numerous Marion friends about eight years ago when they played here with their own stock company.

The program will be a double bill, including two short sketches, a mystery farce, "The Twisted Hand" and "The Second Year" a sequel to their skit, "Isn't It True?"

Miss Pauline Foreman, of this city, will assist Jane and John in presenting "The Twisted Hand."

"In "The Twisted Hand," a comedy by the English writer, Morris Harvey, June will appear in the same type role that she played at the Grand when she appeared there in the Al Wood's production of "Business Before Pleasure," that of a comedy vampire. John will have a light comedy role of the supposed innocent one. The skit is the one presented at the Century Theater roof, New York City, by Jane and John in the Shubert production of the English revue, "The Merry World," season before last.

The other part of the program is a sequel to "Isn't It True?" in which Mr. and Mrs. Adair depicts the trials of "The Second Year" of married life. John Adair is the author of the second skit.

AID TO HEALTH

"EAT liver and live," is the substance of advice given by health authorities these days to persons afflicted with anemia and kindred ailments.

As a result of the discovery that the meat once given away by butchers has valuable health-giving properties, it has become one of the highest priced articles in meat-shops throughout the country.

Inquiry at local places of business discloses that liver is selling here at 50 cents a pound and that it is difficult to get even at that figure. In the larger cities it brings 75 cents a pound. Especially does scarcity of veal liver prevail, that being the kind particularly recommended by physicians.

Discovery of liver's real value has been a notable step in aiding the weak and ailing but has created new difficulties for the householder who depended upon an occasional dish of cheap meat to combat the high cost of living.

VISITOR FROM IOWA

LAST week an announcement coming from the office of the Marion Auto club revealed that during the preceding four weeks tourists from 47 states of the Union and nine provinces of Canada had stopped in Marion, practically all of them drawn here to view the Harding memorial and the former home of the late president.

The trend of travelers toward this city is continuing and can be counted upon to keep up permanently.

Yesterday, among those visiting the city was Elmer A. Emmert, publisher of the Dallas Center Times, a weekly newspaper issued at Dallas Center, Ia. He stopped here with a party of relatives and friends while enroute home from an automobile tour through the east.

It was the first time Mr. Emmert had seen the Harding memorial and he was amazed and impressed by its beauty. While here he collected data regarding the memorial to be used in connection with an account of his trip which will be published in his newspaper.

"I regard the Harding monument as equal to the Lincoln memorial in design and construction," he said.

DOG DAYS

ANOTHER favorite superstition and one which for many years served as a bugaboo to keep the small boy from enjoying the old swimming hole in August, was dispelled today by Dr. J. T. Gruber, city milk and meat inspector, also a veterinarian, who declared that there is no such a time as "dog days" and that dogs are neither better nor worse during this supposed period.

For many years small boys were warned by their mothers of the supposed dangers that lurked in the old swimming hole during dog days. The water was poison at that time, they said, and should a boy be so unfortunate to receive a scratch or a cut, he might go "mad" at any time. Cuts and injuries were not supposed to heal during this trying period.

"Dog days," it is explained by Dr. Gruber, are a relic of ancient times and have nothing whatever to do with dogs. Since ancient times, the Nile river in Egypt has annually overflowed its bounds, covering the surrounding lands with water to a considerable depth.

Since this inundation occurs in August and at about the same time each year, the ancients who lived along the river looked for some sign to tell them about when it would be a favorable time for them to move to higher ground. They found that the star Sirius appeared in the heavens each year just previous to the time of the flood, and they named the star the "dog star" or "watchdog of the people." From this start, Dr. Gruber says, originated the present dog days. Days or nights when this star is in the heavens became known as 'watchdog days."

The theory that rabies are more prevalent during "dog days" is also dispelled by Dr. Gruber, who says that rabies are really more prevalent in the winter than in the summer. Many dogs supposed to have gone mad in the summer are simply victims of the heat, the same as many humans who show something of the same symptoms during the hot weather season.

RULES ON TAXES

Turner Hands Down Opinion on Levies for Roads

Columbus, July 31—[illegible] trustees may submit to a [illegible] the electors of the township [illegible]estion of an additional levy of tax outside the 15-mill limitation for [illegible] construction, or reconstruction, of a township road, where such improvement is a permanent one for which the trustees might issue bonds. This ruling was given by Attorney General Edward C. Turner to officials of the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices.

In a ruling given Prosecuting Attorney Charles P. Taft, 2nd, Cincinnati, Turner held that the unexpended balance of a bond fund of a county should be immediately paid into the sinking fund of the county if such bonds are term bonds, or into the bond investment fund of the county in the event that such bonds are serial bonds.

Danger Signals of High Blood Pressure

"Dizzy spells, hot flashes, pains in the head, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and nervousness usually indicate high blood pressure," warns physician who found treatment to reduce it.

These are symptoms which show an accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system or that one or more of your organs has weakened and caused the heart to be overtaxed. Check it at once for it is known high blood pressure brings on hardening of the arteries, apoplexy, bright's disease, and often sudden death.

Norma, a purely vegetable medicine and a physician's prescription, reduces blood pressure so surely it is regarded as a great medical success. Often one bottle brings prompt relief. Ask for Norma.—Adv.

SERVE AT SMALL PAY

Paris—The director of a French clinic labors for love and honor and not for money. His earnings in round figures amount to ten dollars per month. In other words, his salary is smaller than that of the average office boy in Paris.

"It is a shame and a scandal," writes Maurice Prax in the "Petit Parisien," that our finest doctors and surgeons must work and study for years in order to earn a more pittance of thirty-two cents per day."

Suffered Severe Cramps At Night And After Meals

Konjola Relieves Her From Years of Awful Misery

MRS. JOSEPH HALL

"This is the first time I every publicly indorsed a medicine but I think Konjola deserves recommendation because it gave me new health," said Mrs. Joseph Hall, 9 Columbus Road, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

"For years my stomach caused me trouble and during the last few months I suffered day and night with cramping spells. This was caused by undigested food that layed like a rock in the pit of my stomach. Terrible bloating spells came over me and made my heart palpitate wildly. My nerves were so upset that it was impossible for me to sleep at night.

"I started taking Konjola and the relief was amazing. Food digests as Nature intended and never causes me the trouble I formerly suffered. Cramping spells and gas bloating don't come over me any more and that heavy feeling is gone. My nerves are much stronger. So I strongly indorse Konjola to others who suffer as I once did."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS AT LAKE IDLEWILD

Record Crowd Attends First Performance of Program at Kenton

8-DAY ENTERTAINMENT

"Gilbert's Golden Memories," Headline Feature, Is Presented at Galion

Kenton, July 31—With a record crowd in attendance, the annual Hardin County chautauqua was officially opened at Lake Idlewild pavilion by William Kraus, president of the county association, Sunday.

The varied program, embracing unusual talent, is to continue for eight days, including next Sunday.

Two prominently known lecturers, Edward Amherst Ott, Ithaca, N. Y., and A. L. Fiede, former "Y" secretary, and Moopin's Singing band, were the headliners for the opening, while Oliver's Filipino Quintet, an organization of native Filipinos, educated in America, featured the second day.

In addition to the Filipinos, Dr. Ira Landrith, extension secretary of the United Societies of Christian Endeavor spoke Monday night on "Fiddling While the World Burns."

Officials expressed optimism as a result of the opening crowd, over the success of the eight-day program being held at Lake Idlewild. The chautauqua grounds were changed this season from Bell's park.

E. V. Young, Lincoln, Ill., is appearing as platform manager this season. He appeared here two years ago. He is popular with patrons and upon his appearance yesterday was extended a rousing welcome.

Following a conference of directors, it was announced that the night programs would start at eight o'clock instead of 8:30 as announced on the programs.

Local Youths Make Up Choir at Program

Galion, July 31—"Gilbert's Golden Memories" the headline feature of the 1928 Redpath chautauqua season, was the presentation at the local chautauqua last night. The company was headed by Ellsworth Gilbert, well known teacher and concert artist, and included a double quartet and pianist. The first part of the program was devoted to sacred music with the company gowned as a cathedral choir. Twenty local boys, members of Junior Town made up the boys choir that assisted with the first part of the production. Another part was given to modern compositions and operatic numbers and the last part to old time melodies and well known folk songs.

At the afternoon session the Gilbert's gave a musical prelude and Frederick M. Snyder delivered his lecture, "Up in Arms with Empty Hands." Last night Mr. Snyder returned to the local audience to give an impromptu talk stressing the importance of guaranteeing a chautauqua for Galion next year.

The junior chautauqua members held their picnic at Heise park yesterday afternoon under the supervision of Miss Helen Rogers, and spent the afternoon in games and athletic contests.

Mt. Gilead Council Faces Town Improvement Tasks

Mt. Gilead July 31—Several tasks of much local importance are now on the table before the Mt. Gilead council that have thus far not been ironed out.

Mt. Gilead has operated for several years without a water franchise. The matter of drafting a new franchise was brought up over a year ago and tentative ones were offered by an attorney for the council and by the water company. These two have not been agreed up by both parties although several meetings were held in their interest. The old franchise could not be continued because it was inadequate, it is said.

Cemetery funds are low and there cannot be any income from the sale of lots in the near future because there are but ten lots left, officials say. They believe a new space must be added, which also involves increased finances. The cemetery now requires three men to keep it in shape, but their services cannot continue indefinitely if more funds are not raised, the council states. The council has taken this question into consideration several times but with no satisfactory result. The budget for the county did not provide for the money and there are few funds that money could be transferred from to help this problem.

Plan Street Repair

Plans have been in the making for some time to widen Main st and if the state will bear an appreciable amount of the expense, this will be done, according to plans. The plan is to widen the street. The sidewalks are of sufficient width to enable widening the street without moving any buildings.

Sidewalks are now being repaired by the various landowners following a resolution adopted recently by the council. If the work it not done by the landowner, it is taken over by the council and the bill sent to him, according to the resolution.

According to a recent report from a state official who investigated the local sewer conditions, Mt. Gilead is inadequately equipped with disposal plants. He recommended new plants and a complete rebuilding of the present ones.

BOYS RECOVER FROM POISONING EFFECTS

Bucyrus Youths Mistake Ant Poison for Pulverized Sugar

Bucyrus, July 31—Three Bucyrus youths who mistook tartar emetic, a deadly ant poisoning, for pulverized sugar and narrowly escaped death, yesterday, were reported fully recovered today.

The boys, Harry Thorp, 11, Wallace and Franklin Meyer, aged 11 and 13 respectively, were making a morning round of collecting old papers from business houses in the uptown district, when they ate the poison. The poison which had been kept for use in the Martinitz bakery had been placed in a container next to cookie scraps. Even though the youths had been warned not to eat it, they are thought to have mistaken the poison for sugar because it had been placed near the cookie container.

The youths became ill when they returned to their homes. The grandmother of the Meyer boys administered a cure and a doctor was called for the Thorp youth. All of the youths were reported recovered today and were about the streets again.

TO BEGIN RELAYING TRACKS AT GALION

Order Received To Start Work on Cleveland Southwestern Lines

COMPROMISE EFFECTED

Mayor H. H. Hartman in Cleveland Conferring with Railway Officials

Galion, July 31—Work of relaying the tracks of the Cleveland Southwestern Railway Co. lines here is to begin Wednesday according to announcement issued by city officials yesterday. Mayor H. H. Hartmann has been in Cleveland for several days conferring with officials of the railway company in regard to a recommendation for heavier tracks and the officials gave orders that work was to proceed at once.

The affair is the outcome of a long waged controversy between Galion councilmen and officials of the road in regard to renewing the franchise allowing cars of the Cleveland Southwestern Co. to pass through the streets of the city. A compromise was finally effected and complete plans have now been made.

The work is to be done in sections so that a detour of the entire street may not be made necessary. The workmen who will start Wednesday, will work from the city limits west to Jefferson st.

MORRISON WINS TWO

Twenty-Five Horses Split $1,300 in Purses; 2:10½ Best Time

BY KARL R. McELROY,
Sports Editor, The Star

FAVORITES took a prominent part, in fact much too prominent, in the opening day of the Ohio Short Ship meet at the fairgrounds here yesterday afternoon winning straight heats to cop first place coin in three scheduled events.

Although no exceptionally fast miles were stepped off, every heat was a race with the outcome none too certain until the winner was under the wire.

Officials stated that the opening day crowd ranked among the largest recorded here in recent years. A cool wind failed to keep the fans away from the track. "Ladies Day" helped out quite a bit, too, with members of the feminine sex predominating the crowd.

Escapes In Spill

Twenty-five horses took part in the three races with purses totaling $1,300 being distributed among the winners.

One nasty spill in which R. Plaxico escaped with minor cuts and bruises failed to mar the third event, a 2:15 pace. In the first heat, Plaxico, driving Vivian Grattan attempted to pull from the inside to move closer the leader. The wheels of his sulky and those of A. Morrison locked and as a result the Plaxico horse was thrown.

Witnesses stated that Vivian Grattan fell on the driver but Plaxico was able to walk to the first aid tent where he was treated by Mrs. D. C. Trigg trained nurse in charge of the emergency hospital.

Wins First

Morrison driving Zoulte, managed to keep his horse on its feet and finished first after some nice driving on the stretch. He also won the next heat and the race. Laura B took three seconds while Vivian Grattan came back in the next two heats finishing fourth and first.

Morrison drove another winner in the first event, 2:24 pace for $400, winning the first two heats. He was hard pushed by Yedno's Bonnie with Cares up who take second money. The best time of the day was marked up in this race with the first mile being stepped off in 2:10½.

Another favorite won the three-year-old trot when Kewanee Boy was driven by Childs to a victory in the first two heats. In the third heat Cumban with Sturgeon driving took first place.

TWO GAMES A WEEK FOR COMMERCIALS

POSTPONED games in the Commercial recreation ball league have become a big problem on the hands of Elmer Shaw, secretary of the Marion Recreation Ball commission.

From now on until the season closes the Commercial teams will play two games each week in an effort to finish about the same time as the other league.

If this is not done it will mean that teams in the other three leagues will be held idle for several weeks before the little world series can be played.

LUTHERANS HAVE BIG CHANCE IN LOOP

SPEAKING of recreationol ball, the Lutherans stepped out in front last night and moved a notch closer to the two leading teams by defeating Lee Street.

The Lutherans are staging a desperate battle to tie the count in the loop and practically all the hard teams play each other next week. Epworth Juniors and Lutherans meet while Lee Street takes on United Brethren. If Lutherans and Lee Street win it would mean a four way tie for first place.

BILL TILDEN LOSES TENNIS CROWN

FOR nine years an American sat upon the tennis throne of the world. Today "Big Bill" Tilden has lost that position duel to the fact that he was eliminated by Henri Cochet in a Davis Cup match in France. He plans to retire.

Tilden's career has been a checkered one filled with clashes with the United States Lawn Tennis Association over the player-writer rule.

While playing Italy in the challenge round of the Davis Cup matches, Tilden was removed from the team on account of alleged violations of the rule which made him a "pro."

Tilden received the aid of the French who needed such a man to draw the crowds. However the tennis leaders refused to consider the request saying that Tilden could not play. Rene Lacoste soon brought matters to a head by declining to defend his title in America.

So "Big Bill" played and lost.

ALL OVER GRATTAN BARS

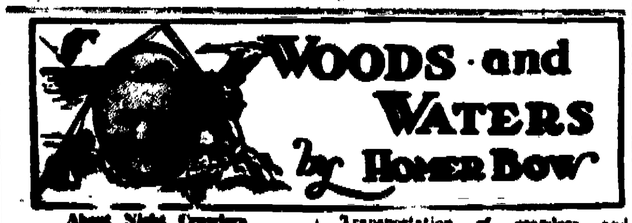

OFFICIALS of the Marion Driving club are in a mixup on what to do with Grattan Bars, the sensation of the track this year. Marion fans want to see him race while other drivers refuse to start in events in which the Canadian racer is entered.

Efforts may be made to have the horse run in an exhibition mile tomorrow. In case this can't be arranged fans may see the horse in the stables on the west side of the track.

HUGGINS HAS TOUGH TIME

MANAGER MILLER HUGGINS of the New York Yankees is in a great state of mind today when his team was given another licking by Cleveland and his lead in the American league pennant race dropped to 5½ games.

He has threatened to let Babe Ruth do a little pitching in an effort to bolster up his staff of ineffective mound artists. About the only good that would come about from this would be an increase in the gate receipts and the batting averages of the opposing batters.

About Night Crawlers

With vacation period at its height and a cavalcade of fishermen heading into Canada and Michigan, the problem of taking bait confronts some.

There is no doubt that the night crawler, called night walker by some, is one of the best of all-around natural baits and is attractive to practically every kind of fish. It will take pan fish, bass love them and even wall eyes, pike and muskies have been known to fall for them as a meal.

On a trout stream this spring—the dream is impossible to a fly fisherman—we had a few night crawlers in with the worms that were being used. One chap confiscated all the night crawlers and he caught more trout than the rest of us, while the crawlers lasted.

Transportation of crawlers and keeping them over a period of days have been a rather difficult proposition, as they will die and spoil very easily. In catching the crawlers it is best to be very careful with them and retain only those which are not injured. Florists moss, procurable at almost any floral shop seems to be the best bet. Do not crowd them and dump the moss out every day and sort over the contents of the box, discarding those worms that do not look healthy.

It will not be a waste of space to take along a few. Some spots in Canada and Michigan have plenty, but others are barren. The residents at Hubbard Lake, Mich., have never seen them, but at spots in Canada I have seen them in plenty.

FOR three-fourths of the season a recreation ball team moved along at a quiet pace making but little noise and managing to keep within reach of the leaders of Sunday School League N. 2.

Today that team, the Lutherans, is being watched by many an anxious eye as the wise eggs of the game are predicting that it holds the key to pennant situation in the loop. Last Saturday three teams were tied for first place and today, if you glanced over the standings, it was noticed that only two teams are in this position now.

Again the Lutherans hold the key to this situation. Last night in a one sided contest, the Lutherans knocked the props out from under the Lee Street nine and while keeping them in this helpless position proceeded to crash out a 12 to 2 victory.

While the Lutherans were pulling this slight of hand performance, two other league leaders were obtaining one-sided victories for themselves. Epworth Juniors trounced the Reformed team 16 to 2. United Brethren had a little more of a fight on their hands in winning over Forest Lawn, 10 to 6. In the other contest Christians defeated Presbyterians, 11 to 4.

Next Monday night the Lutherans will take on Epworth Juniors in another contest that has much to do with the outcome of affairs. Lee Street and United Brethren will also fight it out and it would not be in the least surprising to find that the season will end with four teams tied for first place.

Last night's scores:

First Reformed ..... 000 101 0— 2

RICKARD PLANS FOR SHARKEY-TUNNEY GO

Gene's Valedictory of Pro Career Being Prepared for Public

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, July 31—It may or may not be significant that, while Gene Tunney was supposed to be preparing today the valedictory of his professional career, his withdrawal from the sport that elevated him from the status of obscure clerk to a position of international significance, Tex Rickard was quietly setting his plans to match Tunney with Jack Sharkey for the heavyweight championship next September. Rickard admitted that this was his intention and intimated that he had good reason to believe it could be carried through.

"Don't forget Tunney is signed with me for next year," Rickard said. "He signed that contract only two weeks ago and, at the time, he assured me that he would be ready to defend his title, provided I could develop a challenger who figured to give him a real fight. That puts it up to me and I'm going to try to come through."

Rickard dined with Tunney and Bernard Gimbel on Sunday but had nothing to say about what transpired. The fact, however, that he felt optimistic enough today to discuss a Tunney fight for 1929 indicated that their dialogue was not altogether of a discouraging nature.

There is only one suggestion that can be offered Rickard in this matter. That is to develop his contender with all due haste or resign himself to bearing up bravely without Gene Tunney's future assistance. Everything is against Tunney attempting a come back if his proposed activity extends into a second year. He has taken the examples afforded by Dempsey and Jeffries too much to heart to attempt any fight he thinks he might not win. He would come back for a victory; never, if he could help it, for a defeat. And he knows that two years off the canvas usually is about five years off one's professional life.

LEWIS TO FIGHT

New York, July 31—Ted (Kid) Lewis, once welterweight champion of the world and now a middleweight, will make his first ring appearance here in five years when he fights Maxie Rosenbloom, of New York, in a 10-round bout at Queensboro stadium tonight.

PARIS, July 31—Henri Cochet was hailed today as one of the greatest tennis players of all times as the result of his brilliant efforts in the challenge round for the Davis Cup in which France turned back the United States four matches to one.

Almost single-handed the wiry little Frenchman thwarted America's hopes. In the first day's play, he defeated John Hennessey with ease. Paired with Jean Borotra in the doubles, he shone brilliantly in the defeat of "Big Bill" Tilden and Francis T. Hunter. And then, in a final burst of brilliance, he handed Tilden the first straight set defeat the tall American ever suffered in nine years of Davis Cup play.

America's only victory came when Tilden rose to the heights to defeat Rene Lacoste. Hennessey suffered defeat twice at the hands of Cochet in the first day's play and again yesterday when he played Lacoste.

Hennessey, however, gave a good account of himself. He and George Lott of Chicago, who did not play in the challenge round, probably will form the nucleus of America's Davis Cup team next year, Tilden's retirement in the near future being regarded as certain.

FAST RACERS SCHEDULED

HARD TO PICK SURE WINNER OF EVENTS

Free-for-All Pace Draws Fast Entries at Fairgrounds

PICKING the winners in today's events of the Ohio Short Ship Circuit meet at the fairgrounds will be a mighty tough job, unless one is in intimate contact with a spiritualist or is leading around a pet medium on a string.

At least that was the opinion cast by folks this morning when confronted with the official list of entries for the second day of the "Sulky City" races. Even the veterans on the track are scratching their heads in an effort to pass out a few tips to their friends.

But it just can't be done. Take for example the second race in which seven horses will pace for a $900 purse. There is the great Joe Lewis, Jean Grattan, Prue Grattan Jakie O'Connor, Captain Grattan, Myrtle Baxter and Atco. Everyone of them is a top-notcher. The same is true of the other two races.

It looks as though Tuesday is to outclass Wednesday as the day for the best horses. The following is a complete list of the official starting horses with the positions at the pole and drivers.

15 Trot, Purse $500

Azon, (Cares); Jerry Sullivan, (Daniel); Peter McRea, (Lewis); Leora Hart, (Putnam); Binpine, (Cartnall); Peter Cowl, (McMillen); Freddy Capp, (Childs).

Jean Grattan, (French); Prue Grattan, (Sturgeon); Jakie O'Connor, (Cartnall); Joe Lewis, (Jump); Captain Grattan, (Fields); Myrtle Baxter, (V. Fleming); Atco, (Morrison).

Roscoe, (Smart); Directmar, (Palmer); Nutmoor Jr., (Myers); Sister Rose, (Morrison); Peggy Wood, (Wolverton); Nobs, (McMillen); Victor Direct, (Plaxico); Dean Wilson, (Mullow); Signal Bell, (Parshall); Miss Marie, (Wellwood).

Ruth Passes Two-Thirds Mark In Homer Race

CLEVELAND, July 31—Babe Ruth has passed the two-thirds mark in his drive to set a new record of 61 home runs this season. No. 41, made against the Indians yesterday, puts him 28 days, 25 games and seven home runs ahead of his 1927 pace.

COLUMBUS TEAM TO PLAY LOCAL SUNDAY

The Columbus aggregation of dusky ball stars claim the colored independent championship of the state.

Their team is composed of several former stars of the Homestead Grays and other outstanding colored ball organizations of the country.

LOMSKI WINS

New York, July 31—Leo Lomski, leading light-heavyweight contender, continues to bowl over third-raters in the east. The Aberdeen, Wash., assassin knocked out Ed Clark, of Atlantic City, N. J., in the fourth round of their bout here last night after the negro had been floored for a count of nine earlier in the round.

ATHLETICS NEAR TO

First Place Only 5½ Game Away from Reorganized Mackmen

BABE MAY TAKE MOUND

National League Race Tightens as Cards, Reds and Cubs Lose

BY LES CONKLIN

New York, July 31—The spurt of the Athletics, coupled with the amazing slump of the Yankees, is getting to be as exciting as Sheridan's ride. Seven straight for the A's, and first place only 5½ games away!

Despite Babe Ruth's homer, the league leaders took another wallop at the beezer from Cleveland yesterday, 4 to 2. Ruth's mates couldn't do anything with southpaw Miller. Manager Huggins is so shy of good pitchers that he is considering sending Ruth to the mound. The Babe's return to the box after years of outfielding might be a flop, but how the gate receipts would soar!

Although outbatted, the Athletics nosed out the Browns in the ninth, 5 to 4. The reorganization of the Mackmen finds the veterans Cobb at Speaker on the bench, Haas in center field, pitcher Orwoll on first and catcher Foxx on third.

The National league race also tightened up as New York won and St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago were beaten. The Giants took third place away from the Cubs and Pittsburgh finally jumped ahead of Brooklyn for fifth place.

Rube Bressler, formerly of Cincinnati, nicked his business partner Ray Rixey, for a hit that gave Brooklyn a 2 to 1 win over the Reds.

The Cardinals also were beaten by two of their castoffs, catcher Davis and pitcher McGraw. The latter's relief pitching and Davis' hit in the sixteenth won for the Phillies, 8 to 7.

Faulkner, Ott and Hogan, all of whom were wows on the high school circuit a couple of years ago, helped the Giants trim Chicago, 4 to 1.

AIR MAIL RATES TO CHANGE WEDNESDAY

Local Office Ready for New Schedule; Columbus Line To Open

The new air mail line operating between Cleveland and Louisville, via Columbus, to be inaugurated Wednesday, will not affect the Marion postoffice, Postmaster French Crow stated today.

Air mail sent from here will continue to be routed from Cleveland, as in the past.

However, with opening of the new line, the local postoffice will be affected by the new air mail rates beginning Wednesday. Five cents will be charged for the first ounce and 10 cents for each additional ounce, taking a letter to any point in the United States.

Special stamps are being issued and air mail envelopes will be on sale at the postoffice here. The average four-page letter weighs less than one ounce and sent by air mail will cost only three cents more than regular mail.

Packages, too, may be sent by air mail.

STORE CLOSES WEDNESDAY AT NOON

CHRYSLER OBTAINS DODGE PROPERTIES

Deal Makes Former Concern Third Largest Auto Manufacturer in World

New York, July 31—The Chrysler Corporation has acquired the properties of the Dodge Brothers Corporation, it was announced by Walter P. Chrysler. The merger makes the Chrysler Corporation a $400,000,000 organization and third largest auto manufacturer in the world.

Consummation of the merger was effected two months after first submission of details to the stockholders, the delay being due to the failure of all classes of Dodge stockholders to manifest the 90 per cent approval insisted by Mr. Chrysler.

Dodge stockholders met at Baltimore and voted approval of the merger as announcement was made that last minute deposits had brought the total over the required amount.

The enlarged Chrysler Corporation has permanent assets of approximately $305,000,000, working capital of $80,000,000; total resources of $175,000,000; a distributor dealer organization of 12,000; a manufacturing capacity of 700,000 cars and trucks and a gross business of $500,000,000.

Dodge properties give the Chrysler corporation some 18 modern plants. Trade status of Dodge and its cars will remain undisturbed, and all dealers are being notified to that effect by J. E. Field, vice president in charge of sales of Chrysler.

FILE AFFIDAVITS

Grand Jury To Investigate "Racketeers" in Cleveland

Cleveland, July 31—First results of the fight which authorities are conducting here on "racketeers" were in evidence today in the form of 10 affidavits, charging as many persons with preying on various individuals and trades.

The "racketeers" it is charged, are carrying on organized vandalism and blackmailing. Common Pleas Judge Walter McMahon instructed the summer grand jury late yesterday to investigate the situation and the affidavits which have already been sworn out.

According to information in the affidavits, undertakers, dairymen, bakers and tailors are the particular victims of Cleveland's "racketeers."

Ritzy Rosalie

If one wants to sleep well, one must have the proper color scheme on one's apparel and accessories, according to a late theory along such lines. Accordingly, Rosalie has her bed clothing, footstool scarf and the trimming on the pajamas in futuristic design and coloring. Whether this is conducive to sleep might be a subject for discussion. Incidentally, the pajama scarf is now being worn for sleeping as well as with lounging pajamas.

DRY AGENT UNDER BOND ON CHARGE OF SHOOTING

Steubenville, July 31—J. P. Tice, dry agent, today was at liberty under $1,500 bond on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. Tice disappeared after the alleged shooting of Tony Soldani, 18, said to be a rum runner who attempted to escape from the dry officer, last Saturday.

Tice surrendered through his attorney late yesterday afternoon and entered a not guilty plea when arraigned before Mayor Oliver Conley.

Soldani is recovering in a hospital here.

CANCELS ENGAGEMENT

Marietta, July 31—All speaking engagements of George White, Marietta Democratic candidate for the U. S. senate, for the week were cancelled today following word received here of the death of his mother-in-law in the east. He left for Titusville, Pa., where the funeral will be held.

An "On Time" Record of Service

ONE of the outstanding contributions made by the railroads to business is the speed and dependability of freight service. Shippers count definitely on receiving their goods at the scheduled time and rarely are they disappointed. The "On Time" performance of through freight trains is so close to 100 per cent that even a slight delay in a schedule that covers many hundreds of miles of track over a period of nearly a week is a matter of concern and surprise.

On our own lines during March, April and May two of our eastbound manifest time freight trains were on time every day of the ninety-two days; one was late twice and a fourth was late one time. On the westbound trains one had a 100 per cent record; one was late three times.

This record, which is characteristic of the notable service which the increased efficiency in operation by the carriers has made possible, is the actual transportation accomplishments between Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus and Louisville and points in West Virginia, Virginia, the Carolinas, the Southeast and Florida.

Such performance would not be possible without the cordial support of the shipping public, which co-operates by prompt loading and unloading.

The railroads feel a pardonable pride in occasionally calling attention to the reliability of the service which they are enabled to render.

W. J. HARAHAN,
President.

PROVE HOOVER IS BETTER AMERICAN

Chieftains Ready To Battle Possible Charge of "Foreigner"

[illegible] July 31—Republican [illegible] who ply their trade both [illegible] pen are poised for a brief [illegible] campaign to prove that [illegible] Hoover, the Republican presi[illegible]nee, has emerged from his [illegible] experiences a better American [illegible] should the charge of "for[illegible]" be hurled at him by the Demo[illegible] disclosed here today.

[illegible] appears to be no inten[illegible] part of Republican na[illegible] heads to precipitate a [illegible] is asserted that they have [illegible] themselves to meet a chal[illegible].

[illegible] of information has been [illegible] and compiled by skilled [illegible] understood. Party workers [illegible] sections of the country [illegible] at headquarters how[illegible] Hoover's foreign residence [illegible] furnishes important cam[illegible].

[illegible] all political prattle before [illegible] City convention and it fell [illegible] I don't believe the Demo[illegible] will dare to seriously raise the [illegible]" said one worker. "It might [illegible] in a 'whispering campaign,' [illegible]."

Four Arguments

1—Hoover has stood with those [illegible] unconditional cancellation of [illegible] debts and has held them to be [illegible] loans which Europe should [illegible].

2—He was active in figting the Brit[illegible] rubber monopoly and sponsored the [illegible] bill permitting American im[illegible] to combine to fight other for[illegible] government monopolies of raw [illegible].

3—The department of commerce, un[illegible] Hoover, expanded as never before [illegible] seeking foreign markets for Ameri[illegible] goods.

4—Testimony that the Hoovers, dur[illegible] their residence in London, never [illegible] in high society, because [illegible] on too many "queer" [illegible] scientists and others who did [illegible].

Cites Figures

A new statement by Hoover on the [illegible] also is being pointed to. In [illegible] an editorial request he re[illegible] new commerce department figures [illegible] show that the American working[illegible] purchasing power is far ahead [illegible] all other nations. Comparative [illegible] for common laborers are: [illegible] States, 259; United Kingdom, [illegible]; Germany, 112; Italy, 110; Sweden, 162; France, 68; Belgium, 65.

"I do not know of any exhibit that could be made that should be more il[illegible]minating to the employes of American industry," wrote Hoover. "Among the vital forces which have brought about [illegible] result and maintain it is the pro[illegible] tariff. Also it is illuminating [illegible] the higher purchasing power of American workers for the products of American farms."

Republican chieftains here ignored the result in the Texas primary, where the "Smith bolters" were defeated. An[illegible] prediction of a break in the solid south was made by Col. Henry W. Anderson, of Virginia. Further en[illegible] reports came from Repre[illegible] Reed, Republican of New York, who predicted a Hoover victory in the state; A. E. Ruszkiewicz, editor of a Polish daily in Buffalo, N. Y., who said Hoover would get the Polish vote; Representative Christopherson, Republican of South Dakota, who said that the farm defection was overrated and Representative Campbell, Republican of Pennsylvania, who renewed assurances of a Republican victory in the Keystone state.

COLOR MOVIES ARE SHOWN ON SCREEN

New Process Is Combination of "Light-Filter" on Camera and Projector

Rochester, N. Y., July 31—Soon the amateur cinematographer will be able to reproduce the scenes that delight his eyes in the natural colors instead of the conventional black and white.

As a group of 40 leaders in the world of science and business sat in a darkened room at George Eastman's home yesterday there flashed on two small screens peacocks and parrots in all the glory of their highly colored plumage; flowers with the various colors shading into one another; models showing the summer styles for women with nearly all the colors of the rainbow, and outdoor scenes of children and grownups at play in the woods and the surf.

The new process is a combination of a three-color "light filter" on both camera and projector and a new film with numerous minute cylindrical lenses.

Light-Filter

"The light-filter," which in combination with the film makes possible color motion pictures, is responsible also for its present limitation in the size of the image.

The screens used today were 16 by 22 inches and the use of a larger screen was said to be impracticable because of the diffusion of light through the filter.

The new process was developed in the Eastman research laboratories after rights had been purchased from a Frenchman. It has not been adapted to commercial use.

The filter—or segments of red, green and blue—is placed over the lens of the camera and projector. Each of the colors allows to pass into the camera the light rays of its own color only.

The vari-colored light rays register on the film as black and white, but the tiny lenses embossed on the film itself and made of film substance, distribute the light rays so the different color register on the film emulsion as a distinct black and white impression for each color at that point.

When the film is projected, the light passes through the lenses on the film and then through the projector lens so each ray is directed through the proper color on the "light filter." The combination of the three filter colors gives every possible natural color.

Praised by Edison

Thomas A. Edison, after the showing, termed the process "very simple" and "fine."

"Anyone could use it," Edison said, "I worked along the same line a number of years ago and made a complete failure."

Among those invited to Mr. Eastman's home to view the demonstration were Thomas A. Edison; Michael I. Pupin, Columbia University physicist; Dr. G. K. Burgess, director of the United States bureau of standards; Hirma Percy Maxim, inventor and president of the Amateur Cinema League; Frederick E. Ives, one of the first experimenters in color photography; E. F. W. Alexanderson, one of the inventors of television; Dr. W. D. Coolidge, of the General Electric research laboratories; Owen D. Young, chairman board of directors of General Electric, and General John J. Pershing.

The next reunion will be held the last Sunday in July, 1929, at Garfield park.

When a man estimates his own virtues, he estimates them by making comparisons with those of others.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians for the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

Leighton Helps by Winning Semi-Final Heat of Hurdles

[illegible] stadium, Amsterdam, July [illegible] Lowe, the dark browed [illegible] Englishman from the classic [illegible] on the Olympic program [illegible] the race which all Amer[illegible] fondly hoping would go [illegible] Lloyd Hahn. In [illegible] Lowe repeated his [illegible] at Paris. [illegible] of the Americans, par[illegible] Hahn, came as a bitter pill for the Yankee contingent to swallow, [illegible] after the American reverses that came in the 100-metre dash, the hammer throw and 400-metre hurdles yesterday. The American section of the stands gave Hahn, Earl Fuller and Ray Watson, a rousing cheer as they lined up for the start with the remaining nine finalists.

Hahn Takes Fifth

But they cheered in vain. Their idol, Hahn, could do not better than fifth place being beaten a stride by Phil Edwards, the negro representing Canada, as this pair faltered past the finish. The Swede, Byhlen, and the German, Engelhard, also led Hahn into the worsted.

The only satisfaction the Americans got out of the situation was the victory of Miss Elizabeth Robinson, of the Illinois Women's A. C., in the final of the 100-metre dash for women. The American miss was clocked in 12 1-5 seconds, beating such international stars as the two Canadians, the Misses Rosenfeld and Smith, and Miss Steinberg, of Germany.

They finished second, third and fourth in that order.

Leighton Dye then further revived America's dashed hopes by winning his semi-final heat of the 10-metre hurdles in 14 4-5 seconds, equalling the Olympic record. Gaby, England, was second.

Pole Wins Discus

The Pole, Miss Knopacka, won the discus event, however, with a heave of 129 feet 11 3-5 inches. Miss Lillian Copeland, the Californian, was second with 119 feet 2 inches with Miss Svedberg, of Sweden, third.

Ed Hamm's Olympic record broad jump of 25 feet 4 3-4 inches finally won the running broad jump with Cator, Haiti, second; Alfred Bates, Pennsylvania state college, third; Meier, Germany, fourth; Kocherman, Germany, fifth, and DeBoer, Holland, sixth.

AUTHORITIES DEFIED, MILLS ARE PICKETED

began arresting pickets and their sympathizers. They were charged with violating the city ordinance regarding loitering.

When the large group was finally lodged at police headquarters, having been brought there in police patrols, two covered trucks and a furniture moving van, the prisoners sent up a din—cries, singing and jeers. Women, a majority said by police to have been wives of men arrested, congregated about the central station and begged to be placed in cells with their husbands.

The noise inside and outside the central station quickly resulted in a gathering of a crowd estimated at 10,000 men, women and children. Police lines were overwhelmed and Mayor Charles Ashley ordered out a battery of coast artillery units of the national guard and all local soldiers, numbering 120 officers and men.

The riot act was read and when the crowd did not disperse the order was given for fixed bayonets. Then the soldiers charged. There seemed to be more noise than injury according to eye-witnesses. One man was said to have been injured on the hand by a bayonet thrust and when several stones were thrown at troopers one office was hit but not seriously wounded.

The crowd was finally dispersed but the militia aided local and 25 officers of the Fall River police department in patrol duty.

Acceptance of surety for those prisoners able to furnish bail was not under way until midnight. A truck said to be owned by the strikers brought food to the prisoners early this morning and the authorities allowed the food to be distributed.

Preparations, meanwhile, were made for the arraignment of those gathered up in the police roundup at the picket lines.

NOBILE AND SURVIVORS CROSS ITALIAN FRONTIER

Rome, July 31—Gen. Umberto Nobile and his fellow survivors of the Italia disaster crossed the Italian frontier into their home land this morning. At Verona they were welcomed by Commandant Pierozzi in behalf of Rear Admiral Siriani, under minister for marine.

The Italians traveled quietly and there was no demonstration at the frontier. It is expected that the members of the party will go to their homes until summoned by Premier Mussolini to testify in the inquiry into the ill-fated polar expedition.

FORMER GOVERNOR SUICIDE

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 31 — John C. Cutler, 82, second governor of Utah and prominent banker of this city, is dead here today as the result of what police termed a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head. Despondency over ill health and worries over personal business affairs were said to have prompted the act.

Hoover Tries Desperately to Land Fish But Returns to Camp Empty Handed

BROWN'S CAMP, Klamath River, Near Hornbook, Cal., July 31—Isolated from the political world in a fishing camp, high in the Siskiyou range, Herbert Hoover today sought desperately to land his first catch of the trip.

The Republican nominee for President traveled 615 miles by motor car, fished in two icy mountain streams, and has yet to catch a fish. He arose with the dawn this morning, ate a hurried breakfast and disappeared up the river valley for the third time. His trip north from Palo Alto was taken to land some steelhead mountain trout and to get recreation.

Hoover tried his luck in the Rogue river, a few miles from Medford, Ore., yesterday morning, but without success. A group of photographers, who waded the stream to snap pictures of the candidate, were blamed for scaring away the fish. Then, Hoover entered a motor car and drove 65 miles through the Siskiyou range to this fishing camp in the headwaters of the Klamath river.

The nominee fished here yesterday afternoon but caught no fish. He came back to camp highly discouraged. Some of the veteran fishermen here said the fish would not bite because a power company had opened a dam many miles up the river and allowed a huge volume of water to roll down the stream. The high water, they argued, dirtied the stream and the fish could not see the bait. In all his trout fishing Hoover has used flies, favoring the California coachman.

Hoover got some satisfaction on returning from his second unsuccessful effort, when he learned that a dozen other members of his party had fished without success.

affect his votes on gambling and prostitution but not his position as to the saloon.

"On the question of the menace of Tammany and of Governor Smith's Tammany record for the open saloon the whole issue of the campaign is becoming organized.

"Protected prostitution is quickly passing out of American life and that issue is not vital. But vital or not, I could not in god conscience press the issue realizing that Governor Smith whom I greatly admire for his many high qualities feels that my charges question the purity of his motives which always should be granted in any political controversy. So the 10 or dozen votes on gambling and prostitution come out of the record.

"I hope now American newspapers and particularly Republican newspapers will give the same consideration to this statement that they gave my statement yesterday."

qualities as stamina, confidence, patience, self denial, bodily fitness, mental alertness and courage.

"I have great affection for boxing and one of my chief desires has been to leave the game better than I found it. I have tried to be not only champion, but a sportsman."

"But the time has come when professional boxing can offer me nothing further that I desire. I am putting it behind me, grateful for benefits conferred, but with the feeling that I am yet young enough to make a new start in other fields.

"There is no contender at the present time who appears capable of attracting real public interest. If there were I might delay my retirement long enough to face him in the ring, but it looks as if it might be two or three years before a dangerous opponent is developed. That is too long to stand and wait.

"If I had fought again it would have been for Tex Rickard. I regard him as the foremost boxing promoter of all times. Realizing that another champion will follow me. I can think of no more capable hand than Rickard's in which to leave the selection of such a man, especially as he will necessarily be guided by the advice and assistance of another man to whom I owe more than I can express.

"There could be no more fitting time than this for me to pay tribute to the untarnished honor, the wise counsel, the generous friendship and the lion heart of that grand old man of sport, William Muldoon.

"Under these circumstances it is my desire to place in the hands of Tex Rickard a belt or other suitable emblem of supremacy to be awarded by him to that boxer who, through a series of elimination bouts or victories over the most formidable opponents that can be obtained, shall prove himself deserving of it.

"I have no thought of trying to nominate my successor. To the victor belongs the spoils. I merely step aside and say 'may the best man win.'"

Build A Pretty Home Is Beautiful

Kleinmaiers Let Contracts For Reconstruction Work on S. Main St. Building

Structure To Be Enlarged and Completely Remodeled for New Store Location; Work To Start Within Week and Will Be Completed by Dec. 1

Contracts for reconstruction of the building at 141-143 South Main st. which is to be the new home of the Kleinmaier clothing store, were awarded yesterday and work will be started within the next week, it was announced today.

The general contract, which calls for complete rebuilding of the structure and an 80-foot addition at the rear, went to John Zachman, of this city. Contract for installing of the new front, which will include an arcade entrance and show windows of the latest type, was awarded to the Kawneer Co., of Niles, Mich.

Set Date for Completion

The reconstruction work is to be completed by Dec. 1, under terms of the contracts. Interior decoration and installation of new equipment will then be started so that Kleinmaiers will be able to move into their new location on or before March 1.

The South Main st. building will be occupied entirely by the Kleinmaier store. Plans for the reconstruction have been drawn up by White & Hochstetter, local firm of architects. The first floor of the building was formerly occupied by the Longshore grocery.

The building front is to be completely altered and rebuilt to a three-story height. The new arcade entrance will be 18 feet in depth and will be different from any other in the city, according to plans announced today.

Details of Plans

Four large front windows will be installed on the second floor. The outside stairway is to be removed and access from the first to the second floors will be provided by a wide inside stairway.

There will be a basement under the addition to be constructed a distance of 80 feet at the rear of the present structure.

The entire second floor of the building will be used for the boys' department of the Kleinmaier store and the first floor will be used for men's clothing and furnishings.

LABOR FACES REAL TASK IN CAMPAIGN

Council Majority for Hoover, but Four Members Favor Wet Plank

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31—Confronted with the most difficult political decision in its history the executive council of the American Federation of Labor met here today to formulate its recommendations for the presidential campaign.

A majority of the council of 12 favor Herbert Hoover, according to an individual poll of the membership today by International News Service. But four members came to this seashore resort determined to champion the light wine and beer plank, repeatedly adopted by the federation convention every year since 1920, and to fight for an emphatic endorsement of the legislative labor record of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York.

The non-partisan political committee of the federation consisting of five members, all of whom attended both the Kansas City and Houston conventions, submitted for its report a straight forward narrative of its experience at the convention cities and a recital of the labor plank in each platform.

This report will be passed on to the membership of the federation, for its guidance in the election.

SAFELY CRACKS SAFE

Ability To Open Police Vault Gets Ex-Convict Job

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31—A shabby wanderer and self-styled "prince of cracksmen" has a good job today because he was able to open a safe in police headquarters here.

An absent-minded policeman had locked the safe after leaving the keys inside. He was about to drill open the safe—a long and expensive job—when the shabby stranger volunteered to open it with nothing but a piece of sandpaper if the police would provide him with a free night's lodging as a reward.

While a group of awed officers watched, the safe was deftly and quickly opened by the ex-convict, who boasted that he once had been "one of the best in the business." As a reward he got a bed, a good breakfast and cigars, and a job pushing wheel chairs along the boardwalk.

It cost the county $135 in attorney's fees to defend prisoners unable to employ their own counsel.

Thirty-three inquests were made by the county coroner during the year, the report shows. Five were to investigate cases of suicide, 12 followed accidents, and in 16 cases the cause of death was unknown or natural.

Eight persons of foreign birth applied for naturalization papers through the court. Of these one was German, six Italian, and one Swiss.

SAYS UNEMPLOYMENT IS NOT ALARMING

Bureau of Labor Statement Following Federation Report on Idleness

Washington, July 31—The unemployment situation in the United States is not nearly as alarming "as estimates from some sources would indicate," Ethelbert Stewart, chief of the bureau of labor statistics declared today.

Though this statement came only a few hours after publication of an American Federation of Labor report which said that 11 per cent, of the organized wage earners in 24 cities were unemployed, Stewart did not directly refer to the federation estimate.

Admitting some slackness in the building trades, Stewart said that "enormous numbers" of men usually employed in those trades were being taken care of by season highway construction and other regular summer activities.

The federation's estimate reported 22 per cent of union men in the building trades out of work.

Would Create Clouds to Ward Off Waves of Heat

BERLIN, July 31—Creation of artificial clouds over cities in the summer time to catch the sun's rays and ward off heat waves is proposed by Johannes Christian Bischoff of Kiel, whose inventive genius was stimulated by the hot wave which has just swept over the republic.

A dispatch from Kiel today giving details, said that Bischoff suggests projecting the artificial clouds from balloons. The balloons would be anchored in a row along the edge of the city from which direction the wind is blowing.

There are hundreds of chemical combinations from which the clouds could be made, Bischoff says. He suggests, however, the use of hydrochloric acid and ammonia which are cheap and produce enormous quantities of smoke that would not easily combine with the air.

The inventor pointed out that the false clouds would be invaluable in war time to protect cities from air attacks. They would serve just as effectively as smoke screens as the clouds of smoke discharged from warcraft in naval engagements.

Do Not Be Sensitive.

It's rather shocking to you sometimes to have a writer seem to look into your secret life and take therefrom things that you thought no one knew.

Instinctively that writer rouses in you a feeling of either fear or antagonism.

You wonder why editors print some of the things that you can see apply to you, for you feel that few persons would be interested in them.

It is easy to apply to yourself certain accusations which you know exist in the truth, but you don't want others to think these things about you.

Don't be sensitive.

If you have particular faults, others have the same.

There is not much difference in the run of humanity.

Unless you are unusual, there are many as bad, many much worse, and few who are much better at heart than you are.

The trouble is, you think of yourself as a little better than the average.

Very likely you are not so much better and that is what hurts.

Perhaps you don't mind being what you should not be, but you don't want others to know it.

Telephone Developments.

The United States uses 60.5 per cent. of the telephones of the entire world, with Germany, Great Britain, France and all other European countries using 27.5 per cent. and the remaining twelve per cent. being distributed through all other countries.

This serves to prove only one thing—that here in the United States the people are more keenly alert to modern conveniences than is the case in the so-called highly cultured countries of the Old world.

People of the United States have found that the telephone, like the automobile, the vacuum sweeper, the electric toaster, the washing machine and all the other mechanical labor-savers and time-savers of the day, are not luxuries, but necessities.

It is not surprising to those of us who are Americans that we lead the entire world in the use of the telephone. The surprising thing about it is that the ratio is not greater.

Drive That Frown Away.

When you accept an auto ride from one of the home folks, how do you look on the back seat?

Are you weary and bored, or do you have the decency to look pleasant?

How do you suppose it affects the driver to get your eye occasionally through the little glass in front and realize that all the world driving by can see that you have a grouch?

It may be that brother, sister, father or mother may know that your expression is not always as indicative of ill-temper as it looks.

You may be blessed with a sober countenance.

But if you want to be truly gracious to your companions, even though they be relatives, you might brighten up a bit and look pleasant.

You won't be run into, wrecked or otherwise molested if you should happen to look happy when you are out.

You don't have to look sour to keep the driver on his own side.

It might make the one at the wheel a little more careful to avoid the bumps in the road that he would just as soon give you when you look so soggy and cross.

The grouchy back seat occupant is next to the one who drives from that position.

Children's Mistakes Your Fault.

Do your children make your guests feel embarrassed and uncomfortable? Do they repeat some of the things that you have said about these guests at some time?

Well, don't blame the children.

You should expect the boys and girls to reflect your attitude or repeat your careless, perhaps critical remarks if you make them.

Perhaps you have complained that certain persons have come to your home too often.

You have grumbled, perhaps, that sleeping arrangements must be changed.

Don't be surprised if tiny Tim or Sally gives you away quite innocently.

It is always unwise for fathers and mothers to discuss coming guests unless something of a complimentary nature is said.

Then there are young people who plainly show their displeasure to their parent's visitors because the general routine must be disturbed—they are ungracious.

Parents should not stand for discourtesy of this nature.

If it becomes necessary to apply force to break such a spirit, this should be resorted to, even when company is present.

It is a mistake to permit children greater liberty when guests are present than they have when the family is alone.

The Bootlegger a Crime Breeder.

Since bootlegging has come to be a nation-wide affair in which the law-breaker is supported morally and to a considerable extent financially, by the better class of people, crime has shot upward at an alarming rate. The American Bar association brands the bootlegger as the crime breeder of the age. But what the American Bar association puts into words is nothing the American people have not known for a long time.

Bootlegging has led to murder, hijacking, bribery, highway robbery and countless other crimes. There always were offenses of this character, of course, but never on the tremendous scale apparent in recent years—never on the scale apparent today in Chicago, New York and other metropolitan centers.

And so long as the American public is tolerant as it is today, just that long will the bootlegger continue to thrive on his spoils. It will take a vigilant and informed public which will not tolerate corruption in office, the breaking up of gang rule and corruption in politics, to bring about a rigid enforcement of the prohibition law.

Arthur V. Lashly, who investigated conditions for the American Bar association, offers another solution, however. That is repeal or amendment of the prohibition laws, if they can not be enforced. There seems to be a recurrence of this thought in many sections of the country. But it is a proposal which will be difficult of carrying out. Prohibition is entirely too sensible a thing to be rejected merely because corrupt public officials in some quarters have permitted the bootlegger to spring up like a mushroom.

Honest efforts to enforce the prohibitory laws, upstanding public officials, and an aroused public conscience will do more to run bootleggers into the penitentiary than anything else which has been proposed.

The Women Are Showing Interest.

Judging by the news reports of the political forums which have been so recently conducted by the women of Ohio who look upon their enfranchisement as something really worth while, the feminine influence will be felt to a much greater degree at the polls on August 14 and November 6 than ever has been the case in this district.

Women, it seems, have come to the conclusion that the right to vote is something which should be exercised, and so they have gone into the field this year to ascertain what politics is all about. There always have been some women who were keen for politics, and who were active in party councils. But the rank and file of the women have failed to respond as they should. This year, however, indications are this order will be changed.

When women meet candidates for office face to face and engage them in open discussion of policies, platforms, law enforcement and the like they are showing rare good judgment and a desire to get both sides of the question before making up their minds which way to vote. That is as it should be. Voting one party ticket merely because some one else does so, is not sound political judgment.

If the men show half as much interest in the primary and the fall election as the women are showing there ought to be an outpouring of votes in every precinct.

He does not expect as much as is given Mother, but still he would like to be considered more than the mere money-maker for the family.

Usually when men and women write home they address letters to mothers.

Most of what they contain is of interest to mothers.

Incidentally some mention may be made of "Dad."

Dads are not supposed to be sentimental.

But this thought is carried too far by most people.

A little special message to Dad should be included in each letter.

He may not do more than grunt when he reads it.

But it is a safe bet that he will try to get hold of that letter and read and re-read the pleasing reference to himself.

Mother will be pleased too, if Dad is remembered.

She knows him better than the children do.

She realizes he likes to think he has a warm spot in the hearts of his boys and girls.

Poor old Dad, he does not get much consideration—and how long would the home run without him?

Unless I learn to ask no help
From any other soul but mine,
To seek no strength in waving reeds
Nor shade beneath a straggling pine;
Unless I learn to look at grief
Unshaken from her tear-blind eyes,
And take from Pleasure fearlessly
Whatever gifts will make me wise—
Unless I learn these things on earth,
Why was I ever given birth?

A woman in an Indiana town was knocked over by an automobile, and though her head struck the pavement a violent blow she was saved from injury by an old-fashioned coil of hair.

At first blush this sounds like a powerful argument in favor of long hair. And then one reflects that if she had worn short hair she might not have been knocked down at all; she might have been riding in a speedy sport car that knocked some one else down.

Acid Stomach Common Ailment.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

You regulate your children's diet for them. You forbid them certain foods which you believe would be harmful and you limit the quantities. You may sometimes scold or punish the child for disobedience when the temptation of some forbidden favorite proves too strong for the young conscience.

And then you right about face and do just what you punished the child for doing. It is strange how many grown people are slaves to their appetites.

If people never ate food they believed to be bad for them they would never have indigestion. If they never overate or indulged at the wrong time, we would probably hear very little about acid stomach.

Acid stomach and heartburn are the terms commonly used to describe the condition known as "hyperacidity." This is one of the most common of ailments.

The symptoms are varied. The most common are a feeling of fullness and weight in the abdomen, belching of gas and food after eating, headache and sickness at the stomach.

Persons who are subject to hyperacidity know, or think they know, which foods cause the condition. And yet they go on eating them.

Nervousness is an important factor in producing hyperacidity. The condition is most apt to occur when you are nervously tired, overworked, or overexcited. If in this condition you eat hurriedly, carelessly or too much, heartburn is likely to be the result. There could hardly be a better formula for bringing on an attack of heartburn than to bolt a meal of rich foods and then hurry right off in a frenzy of excitement to keep a business or social appointment.

Constipation is nearly always a symptom of hyperacidity. Indeed, it is probably one of the causes of it. You cannot hope to cure hyperacidity until the constipation has been relieved.

The first step in correcting the condition is to regulate the diet. Omit rich foods, such as pastries and fried foods, condiments and malt liquors. Limit the amount of fats and starches. Take plenty of green vegetables and stewed fruits.

Overcome the constipation. If regulation of the diet will not do this at once, take a tablespoonful of mineral oil daily, half an hour before breakfast or three hours after the evening meal.

Editorial Comment.

THE "WORLD'S" WIGGLE.

The New York World, a leading organ of the Democratic party, now finds itself embarrassed by a two column editorial it printed on January 21, 1920, declaring for Hoover. The World began by saying:

In the judgment of the World, the best equipped and best qualified man to succeed Woodrow Wilson as president of the United States is Herbert C. Hoover.

We should be glad to support Mr. Hoover as the Democratic candidate for president on a platform that represented the historical principles of the Democratic party. We should be glad to support him as an independent candidate on a platform of progressive liberalism. We should not hesitate to support him as the Republican candidate on a platform representing the kind of government which Mr. Hoover has exemplified in his public career.

The World went on: The partisan objections to Mr. Hoover are arguments in his favor. The American people are tired of professional politicians and disgusted with party politics. Of all the men whose names have been mentioned, the World believes Mr. Hoover alone measures up to the Presidency in the fullest sense. He—Hoover—has worked with his hands, and he knows from personal experience the point of view of the man who has worked with his hands. He has been a director of labor in great enterprises and he knows from personal experience the responsibilities and difficulties of the director of labor. He knows the economic condition of the world better, perhaps, than any other American, and economic understanding is now a vital element in government. He knows diplomacy and the politics of Europe as few Americans have ever known them.

Those Americans who want a business man for president can find him in Mr. Hoover, who has brilliantly managed one of the most successful business undertakings known to history.

The World ended by saying: For itself, the World does not care whether Mr. Hoover calls himself a Democrat or a Republican or a Progressive or an Independent. He is the kind of man that ought to be president of the United States, and he is the man the World intends to support for president of the United States, regardless of all the artificial barriers of a debased and discredited partisanship.

In short, the World made as strong a statement of the availability and the super-ability of Mr. Hoover as any that were heard eight years later at the Kansas City convention.

Quotations from this editorial have of late been going the rounds of the press, until the World has felt constrained to justify itself for its present support of Governor Smith and opposition to Mr. Hoover. No one can quarrel with its explanation that it believes the Democratic candidate of today a better man than the Republican candidate, despite its opinion of eight years ago. What the American people think about that, will determine the result in November.

But it is a pity that the World couldn't content itself with the perfectly feasible explanation that both are good men, and that it believes Governor Smith the better. It goes on to explain that Mr. Hoover has served eight years in Republican cabinets, has become a partisan Republican and "has earned his nomination by sacrificing all traces of independent leadership." To any one who has watched Mr. Hoover's able conduct of the commerce department, who has taken note of the things he has achieved for the public good, that reads like nonsense.

And if Mr. Hoover in eight years has really become such a hidebound partisan as to negate all the fine things the World so truthfully said of him in 1920, isn't it odd that one of the chief arguments of the "Stop Hoover" movements of Kansas City was that he was not and never had been a real Republican?

As for partisanship, Governor Smith far excels Mr. Hoover in regularity and devotion. His Tammany record is consistent and unbroken. Only recently he publicly renewed his fealty to that peculiar institution.

No one can blame the World for now preferring Smith to Hoover, if such is an honest preference. But its plea that the Hoover of today is a different and less available man than the Hoover of 1920, sounds as insincere as a thirsty wet's condemnation of prohibition on the ground that it isn't fully enforced.—Minneapolis Journal.

Mainly About People.

J. Lee Cooper, of Clarksville, Texas, claims to have read every issue of a Dallas newspaper since its establishment more than fifty years ago.

Not many persons outside the intimate circle of the English royal family are aware of the fact that the Duke of York is an excellent amateur magician.

Though four times governor of New York, Alfred E. Smith does not hold the record for long tenure of office even among the present state executives. He is far outdistanced by George W. P. Hunt, who has been elected governor of Arizona six times, and Governor Hunt is only runner-up to Abram F. Pothier, who is serving his seventh term as governor of Rhode Island.

Sunspots and Heat.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"I understand that sunspots reach their maximum every eleven years; also that this year they will wax greatest, bringing a cold summer. I recollect, however, that eleven years ago, when I resided in Providence, Rhode Island, there were two successive August days when the temperature was respectively ninety-eight and ninety-nine degrees, and the weather generally was pretty warm. Have I been misinformed with regard to the eleven-year cycle and the consequent cold weather at its height?—Mrs. M. S., Bronx."

Your information about the eleven-year cycle is substantially correct, except with regard to the effect upon the weather. It has not been proved that the seasons are definitely colder or hotter at sunspot maximum. On the contrary, there is reason to believe that the total radiation of heat from the sun increases with increase of spottedness. The solar constant, which means the intensity of the sun's radiation per unit surface as it enters our atmosphere, has been known to increase as much as two per cent. at a time of maximum spottedness. On the other hand, during a sunspot minimum the solar constant has been found to decline.

But these variations are themselves more or less irregular in detail, and it is difficult to disentagle their effects upon the weather and the climate from local, i. e., terrestial, causes producing similar results. Upon the whole the earth probably receives more heat during sunspot maxima, but the fluctuations of radiation are then so large, so that the result may be a hot spell when cooler weather is expected, or a cold interval in the midst of a warm season. The most conspicuous effects that can with probability be ascribed to the influences of a sunspot maximum, like the one now near its height, is capriciousness of weather conditions, and excesses of heat and cold, with frequent untoward changes. The atmosphere is the source and cause of the uncertainty that exists on this subject. It is the mechanism through which the effects of the sun's radiation are distributed over the earth, and it is a mechanism of a fluid nature, subject to an infinity of local disturbance difficult to trace and co-ordinate. The effects of an increase in the solar constant may be masked or even reserved by such things as great volumes of volcanic dust.

The influence of sunspots over the earth's magnetism, and in the stimulation of magnetic storms and electric earth-currents is unquestionable, but the hitch comes when an effort is made to correlate these with weather changes or climatic variations.

Still, out of the confusion rise the two certainties, first that our sun is a variable star—though not greatly variable, at least at present—and second that relation between the sun and the earth is such that the latter can not escape the consequences of the irregularities and unsteadiness of its great solar master. The sun is no colt, since its age must be thousands of millions of years, and it may be settling down to steadier carriage in the future. On the other hand there are some who think its variability may eventually greatly increase. Unfortunately, or fortunately, we can not say of this as we do of so many changeable things: "Well, wait and see." For the time measures concerned in this matter are not of the same order as those of human life. — Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Diane de Poitiers and Henri II.

BY COZETTE DOUGLASS.

When one thinks over the word "Romance" a picture invariably forms itself of two lovely young things drawn together by the ties of youth, mutual tastes and understanding. But it is not always so, as evidenced in the romance of Diane de Poitiers and Henri II of France.

Unlike so many of the fair charmers of history, Diane was of noble lineage. At fifteen she had married Louis de Breze, "le grande Senechal" of Normandy. He was wealthy and stood high in favor with the king. Diane was much better educated than most girls of her station were at that time, and her beauty and wit speedily won a place for her in the affections of the young king.

At the time of her first meeting with Henri she was a widow of thirty-seven—he but seventeen, and strange as it may seem, from a court full of younger and lovelier women, Diane was the one who claimed the young king's heart.

Perhaps when one reads of the trials and difficulties which the young king had to surmount, it is not so strange that Diane's sympathetic understanding and worldy wisdom appealed to the boy who had been the youngest son and least loved child of King Francois. She taught him nobility of manner, courtliness, generosity of speech and action and her influence made of the timid boy a man who could hold his own with any of the reigning monarchs of the time.

On Henri's accession to the throne, on the death of his elder brother, Diane at last enjoyed the fruits of her patient waiting and untiring effort. Although he was married to Catherine de Medici, Diane was really the uncrowned queen of France. She it was to whom Henri confided all State secrets. He heaped riches and honor on her. She was consulted, dreaded and flattered as never before had a king's mistress been. Indeed, Henri insisted upon obeisance to Diane before his own queen.

It is hard to conceive of such a love between these two, despite the disparity in their ages, as Diane was twenty years older than Henri. But it flamed and flared with a steady flame until the death of Henri ended the reign of this "uncrowned queen."

Her palace at Anet in Normandy was one of the most magnificent in the world. From these fragments which were saved after its destruction during the French revolution, one can form an estimate of the grandeur and vast wealth of Diane.

An unfortunate accident during a tournament proved fatal to Henri and he died carrying Diane's colors—black and white—which she had consistenly worn since the death of her husband.

Henri's death terminated the romance between these two and Diane retired to her palace where she died on April 5, 1566, at the age of sixty-seven.

So you see, romance isn't the question of age. It's a thing of the heart and time nor age nor position can change or extinguish the flame once it is kindled. — Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 31.—The last flutter of flapperism seems near in New York. What was once a big noise is now a thin whisper. The old-fashioned girl is having a revival, and to be a prude is considered smarter than being flippant.

Smart cafes report a decided slump among those young girls who gathered at luncheon tables and drank themselves into blurry hilarity. No party was considered in full cry until a generous round of cocktails had been served, and anyone who didn't indulge was a Kansas-sized wet blanket.

Nor was a party "well thrown" unless at least one flapper was found not later than midnight enjoying her forty winks among the left-over dishes in the kitchen sink. Afternoon tea was just an excuse for a start on the evening debauch. The dry party was paradoxically a washout.

Flapperism lasted long enough for a number of matrimonially eligible maids to come to the sudden realization they had oodles of playful boy friends, but none of them was insisting upon a romp to the altar. Fun is fun, but there is no particular fun in being an old maid.

It was noticeable quite a number of high stepping lads were absenting themselves from synthetic merry-making. The next heard of them they were domiciled in a cottage out where the pavement ends—married to those plain girls who do their own housework.

Girls who continued the pace wound up in a Connecticut village at midnight to marry some fortune-hunting nobleman with a cluster of adenoids and a faked family crest. And a few weeks later papa had to cough up a big chunk of the family fortune to get rid of a worthless son-in-law.

During all this hoop-dee-doo there were many girls who maintained a maidenly calm and poise. The frivolities of a hectic generation apparently did not interest them. They were homebodies. And the pendulum swung back and they came into their own and are living happily ever afterward.

Artists and writers are reputed hopelessly dumb about finance. And yet it is whispered Clarence Buddington Kelland was recently on the right side of the market for a sum totalling nearly a million. In the top tower of the Heckshear building is a luxurious studio occupied by Russell Patterson, who came out of Chicago a few years ago to rap timidly at the doors of art editors to inquire if there was any "arting" he could do at home or on the premises. Among other things he has collected in his New York sojourn are a yacht, an imported motor car with a four-tone siren, and the impression New York is rather kind to strangers.

• • •

But success in New York is not always so sweet to the stranger. There is, for instance, Laurence Stallings, who came here permanently disabled fighting for his country and in poverty and within a year became a foremost book critic, reaped a fortune in royalty from a play and movie and authored a best-selling novel. It might be supposed his address would be New York from then on. But he recently pulled up stakes and with the proceeds of his clean-up purchased a farm in North Carolina, where he expects to reside for some time to come.

• • •

And there are innumerable persons who came here from other cities, made quick fortunes and will now be found occupying their villas in southern France, wondering how people endure New York.

• • •

But all this makes New York different. Nobody cares whether you come here, how long you stay, how much money you make or when and where you go.

• • •

About all New York asks of the new-comer is for him to mind his own business. And cheer for Jimmy Walker when he arrives late. And the latter is becoming one of the favorite things many are beginning to hate to do.—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

MUST TAG DOGS

Failure to Register Canines Constitutes Misdeamour, Claim

Columbus, July 31—Attorney General Edward C. Turner has ruled that every person who owns, keeps or harbors a dog, more than three months old, prior to Jan. 1, last, and fails to register such a dog before that date is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to punishment.

Turner held also that persons who registered after Jan. 1 dogs owned, kept or harbored last year, still are subject to the fine and costs provided by state law, if convicted. This ruling went to officials of the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices.

Turner ruled that neither the county auditor nor the county dog warden can require an applicant for dog registration to divulge the name of the person who sold the dog and cannot require such an applicant to sign an affidavit that he, or she, did not own the dog on Jan. 1, last.

USED CARS are opportunities

—A used car is unused transportation—

A GOOD automobile may be likened to a "package" containing so many thousand miles of transportation.

Only occasionally are all of these miles used by one owner. The American custom of turning in a car after an average use of two years, brings into the market every year several million "used cars." And these offer opportunities which more people are appreciating every year.

The cars accepted by General Motors dealers in trade vary in name, body style and price. Some have seen sturdy service; in others the potential mileage has been scarcely touched. There is a wide field of choice for families wanting transportation at the lowest possible cost, or wishing to own a car of a higher price class.

Marion's 1928 Chautauqua Program Ends Tonight With Lecture by Dr. Edward A. Ott

Will Deliver Famous Discourse, "Sour Grapes;" Judge Bale Speaks to Last Night's Audience, Declaring Parenthood Is Most Important of All Professions

With Dr. Edward Amherst Ott's famous lecture, "Sour Grapes," and two concerts of Oriental and American music by Olivar's Filipino Quintet, Marion County Chautauqua for the 1928 season will be brought to a close today.

Dr. Ott's lecture, which features the closing program, is scheduled for 9 o'clock tonight, the concluding number of the Chautauqua. The quintet entertained this afternoon and are to give a prelude at 8 o'clock tonight.

Before a fairly well-filled auditorium last night Judge Fred G. Bale, for a number of years judge of the juvenile court of Columbus, lectured on the subject, "Tomorrow's Citizens Today," a discussion of the physical, mental and moral aspects of modern youth based on statistics compiled during the years when Judge Bale determined the destinies of hundreds of Columbus children, studying their characters and the influences which had been instrumental in bringing them before the law.

Plea to Adults

Judge Bale's lecture was largely a plea to arouse adult interest in child problems as a community, pointing out the vital importance of childlife to the future of the nation, physically, mentally and morally.

In discussing the mental aspect of childhood, Judge Bale referred to inadequate marriage laws making possible the birth of mentally defectives and numerous children without homes financially capable of providing them with even the bare necessities of life.

"A 25 per cent increase of mental defectives was shown in the citizenry of the last generation", the speaker said. "Were as much of the nation's intelligence directed towards the proper breeding of children as is given to cattle and livestock raising, the future of the nation would be doubly secure. We are living in a commercial age—an age when spiritual and human values are made secondary to profit-making."

Parents' Responsibility

"The future of the nation lies with the parents of today", Judge Bale declared. "Parenthood is the greatest profession in the world—a profession requiring as much or more education than any other profession. Towards the development of humankind capable of such a profession, attention should be given to the schools which produce them, schools which overlook the individual with their 'job lot' systems of education arranged to fit the average.

As a prelude the G. Magnus Schutz Concert Co., headed by G. Magnus Schutz, who appeared here on the Chautauqua platform two years ago, entertained with a delightful program of vocal music. Their numbers, both last night and in the afternoon, when they gave a lengthier program, included popularized classical music interspersed with light opera and negro spirituals. Four of their most enthusiastically received numbers were the selections from "The Red Mill," "The Happy Land," "Piff Paff Pouff" and "A Persian Garden."

Personnel of Troupe

The troupe consists of Mr. Schutz, bass, Miss Hazel Fontaine, soprano, Miss Adele Brandt, contralto, William Dubies, tenor, and Merle Maupin, pianist.

Attorney John H. Clark, who presided, announced the following nominating committee for a Chautauqua association for next year: W. N. Hardee, Wesley King, Miss Lillian Plack, Dr. M. B. Newhouse and the Rev. George E. Groves. The subscription sale of tickets for the Chautauqua next summer, favorably begun last night, is expected to reach 700. A total of 650 tickets were pledged last year.

The Constant Flame

A ROMANCE OF GRIPPING HUMAN INTEREST

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER NINETEEN

FRANCES HAIDEN invited Emily ... an evening or two later. ... felt the girl must be rescued from ... warped viewpoint and went about it in the direct fashion which was a part of all she did.

... no intention of allowing anything ... as to develop between her and ... and Kingdon Coles. But she was convinced that life could not ...

"... meet experience," she once ... "Grapple with it. That's what makes a woman strong and ..."

And to herself she added, "Throw this exquisite child to that vulgarian with the hard jaw and the atavistic manner—tragedy! She must have a chance to know other things; find out what's true. I can show her a little."

She hummed to herself:

"... to admire and for to know,
For to be old this world so wide—"

And invited Emily for dinner. "Wear the yellow frock, dear; the one with the frills."

"It's going to be a party, Frances?"

"I don't think so." Rather glib this was, in her present state of high resolution Emily would have refused a party. "It's a pretty frock and you never put it on."

Which was true enough. The dress was a copy of the one she had worn that night when Kent followed her into the garden; the night when they had stood above the river watching ships pass and he kissed her goodbye.

She loved the pale gold flounces, but kept them hung away. She felt almost that she must save the dress. That night could not return; never again would Kent sit beside her, smiling, saying with the small break in his voice that she was sweet.

Yet she dreamed of this; having the gown almost made it seem not altogether a dream.

She put it on tonight and called a taxi. An extravagance she considered that, but told herself she was entitled to something. As they spun through the River road and on down Lowland drive toward Great View she saw with a twinge of longing that this was another such night as the luminous one she remembered. The moon hung low on the river and rose hedges were fragrant all along the way.

Frances called to her from the garden to go in; she would follow shortly, she said. As Emily stepped into the drawing-room, not yet lighted, a tall figure came out of the shadows, took both her hands, bending over them.

A mysterious something about this as of a thing only partly remembered; she caught her breath. But it vanished when the man spoke.

"Golden girl! How beautiful you are, Emily. Coming to me in the twilight—"

A shade too perfect. Kent could not have done that. She laughed and pulled on a lamp.

Still she was warmly conscious of his eyes throughout dinner. There were only the three of them under lighted candles and Frances managed to become a background.

Emily found herself being courted like a princess; openly adored. It thrilled her, rather; sent through her the pleasing glow of feeling that she was desired.

Afterward they sat on the terrace and watched the broad, bright roadway which led from the near shore straight across the river to the moon. Frances a bit apart, thoughtful and silent; Emily like a mist become human in her pale chiffon with her pale fluff of hair; Coles very romantic, all the sophistication rubbed out by the dim sheen, boyish and somehow sweet.

Emily felt herself wondering about him a little. Wondering what it might be like to think of him as someone besides just a friend of Frances. Pleasant, perhaps, to go on receiving this homage. Other girls had that and now she knew she had missed it.

When his hand folded around hers she glanced down but did not move. It was when he spoke, his voice a bit husky, that she turned her head.

"Why did you do that, Emily? Don't you like me?"

"Of course I do."

He moved abruptly. But she sat there with the soft light on her fairness, a silver creature, infinitely gracious. He tried to look away but his gaze came back.

"If I'm not satisfied with that, dear? Not just your liking? Have you ever been in love, Emily-of-my-heart?"

"Oh, love!" She smiled, thinking backward.

"You don't believe in love? You don't think it the greatest thing in the world? After waiting long, being deceived many times, you think a man can't find it at last?"

Kingdon Coles rather liked to dramatize himself. Not insincerely; he truly saw himself as the hero of situations and this was his scene. It rolled along smoothly:

"The first moment I saw you Emily—heard you speak—beautiful, so different from every other woman in the world! Can't expect you to care, I suppose.

"Some day, darling? There'll never be anyone else for me. Always I'll be loving you."

He crushed her fingers to his lips and she was stirred. Love? Well, the world didn't whirl ... a rosy light as it had seemed to that night at Highcliffe. Nothing to strike down her heart in this, open it to hold the earth and a star.

She thought that, vaguely, and wondered why she could only think—not feel.

"So new to me, this is," flashed through her mind. "And I do like him. A lot. If I could care more—forget Kent—"

"There's no one else, Golden Girl?"

She remembered Marty then and what she had promised her mother. It was like a cloud going over the sky. But she tore her thoughts from it. Fate to step in and rescue her—perhaps Kingdon Coles was fate. Mus would like him. Who wouldn't?

He took her silence for denial; a time came when she looked back on the spell of that moment and was glad she had said nothing.

He put his head down and would have kissed her but Mrs. Haiden rose.

Emily turned back at the door and looked out over the river. A freighter was going up stream, lights about the pilot house like gleaming jewels. Another swept downward; their whistles spoke as they passed.

She glanced at her yellow flounces and the night wind seemed cold suddenly.

Never a Marcel Wave

By Edna Wallace Hopper

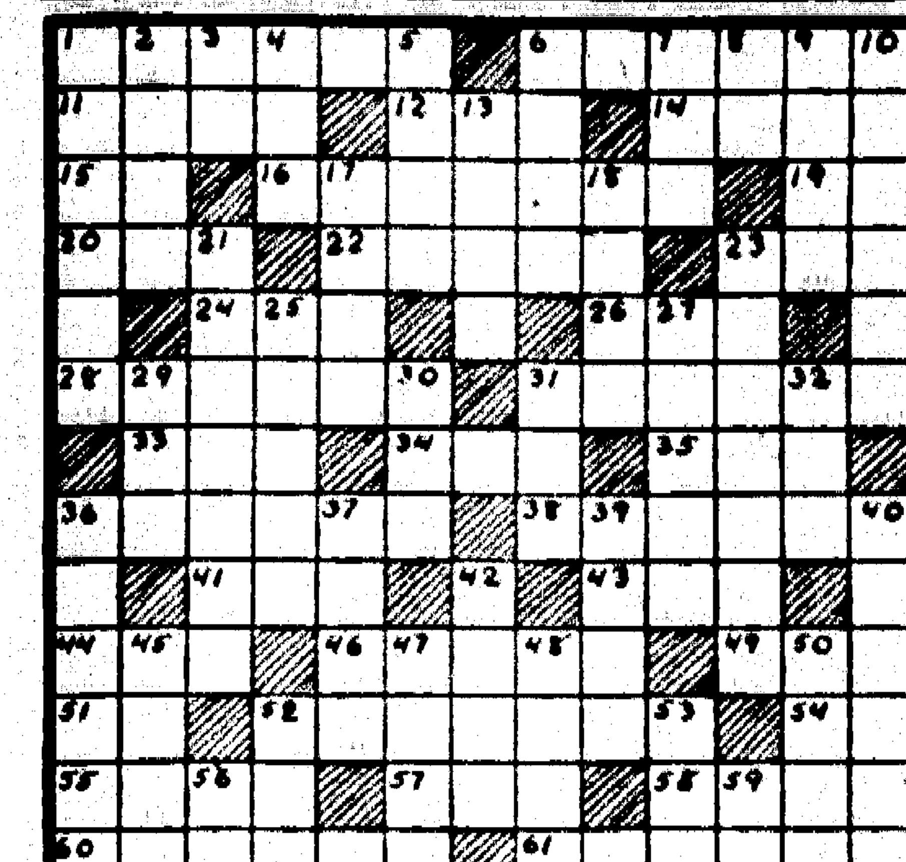

On the stage, in public and at private functions my hair always attracts. During my performances women never fail to ask the secret of my perfect wave and the youthful lively sheen of my hair.

It is very simple. I wave my own hair. First I moisten it with my liquid hair-dress, Wave and Sheen. I use a comb to apply it. Then I carefully insert the combs. I tie a piece of chiffon over my head. By the time I am ready to complete my toilette the waves are in to stay.

A radiant sheen, free from stickiness is the chief charm of this simple method. Wave and Sheen is the only dressing I would use on my hair. It is the only preparation I know that does not give the "plastered" effect, which I cannot tolerate. The hair, must have some air in order to be healthy and free from dandruff.

You can get a bottle of my Wave and Sheen at any toilet counter. It is guaranteed. 75 cents.—Adv.

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Tells Why Dicky Insisted on Being One of the Shopping Party

DICKY'S niece is a good actress, but though she made an admirable effort she could not conceal her anxiety over her missing bank book and check book. Her attempts to join in the chatter of the rest of us were patently forced, and I was glad when Lillian and Dicky began one of their interminable half-jesting, half-serious arguments which effectually shut out any other attempts at talk. I suspected that they had staged their conversational monopoly for Mary's benefit, and Lillian confirmed my guess when, as the rush from the train to Long Island waiting room separated us from the others, she whispered to me:

"Let Mary flock by herself for a few minutes until she pulls herself together. She's more upset over the loss of her note books than she wants to admit. I'm afraid you'll have to keep your eyes on that girl again."

There was disappointment as well as disapproval in her tone, and, not for the first time, I found myself fiercely resentful of her implied censure of the girl whom I have learned to love as well as if she were my own niece, instead of my husband's. But a second thought showed me the inconsistency of blaming Lillian for a doubt which I knew was lurking in my own soul. The memory of that escapade of Mary's which so nearly spelled tragedy for all of us, was relentlessly pushing its way through the swathings of forgetfulness, though I kept stoutly insisting to myself that there could be no discreditable reason for her apparently incredible frugality.

"I am watching her," I whispered back, but I knew from the quick glance Lillian gave me that she had fathomed my resentment. She slipped her hand through my arm and gripped my wrist lovingly.

"I'm not prejudiced, Madge, honestly," she whispered, "and it's ten to one we're stirring up the well-known mare's nest. But you must be on the alert to safeguard the child from herself if she needs it."

"I know it," I returned, and then we were abreast of the others, listening to Dicky.

"If you women will stay in the waiting room," he said, "Harry and I have an errand which won't take but five minutes—ten at the outside."

"If you men will tend strictly to your stunt of knit two, purl two, while you're gone," Lillian mocked, "you may come within fifteen minutes of that promise. But you'll find us here when you come back — four patient Griseldas, though we swoon with fatigue."

"Kill-joy!" Dicky exclaimed as he and Mr. Underwood turned away. "Marion, don't you believe a word of the slander your mother is uttering. Mary, I'll telephone Katie while we're gone—I can do that while I'm waiting on my other errand—and I'll tell you what she says when I get back."

"Thank you, Uncle Dicky." Mary said sweetly, but I guessed that she was disappointed not to interrogate Katie herself. She hid her annoyance bravely, however, and seemed as childishly pleased as Marion when Lillian put a dollar bill in her daughter's hand with the injunction to the two girls to "hurry up and satisfy that soda fountain thirst." They no sooner had disappeared than she burst forth with the irritated comment which she never would have voiced before them.

"The next time I plan a shopping trip, I'm going to lock Harry in the closet till I come back, and I hope you'll do the same with Dicky. I know they don't want to go shopping with us, but they might as well trail us to every store as to hold us up this way."

"It's on Mary's account that Dicky is delaying us," I told her, first being sure that the girls were well out of hearing.

JUST RINSE OUT (DON'T SCRUB) YOUR GARBAGE PAILS

10 SECONDS ALL TIME NECESSARY

New Way Cleans and Disinfects Instantly—Surely

Household experts now recommend a new simple way to cleanse and purify garbage pails and cans. This hardest of all household duties can now be finished in ten seconds without scouring or scrubbing.

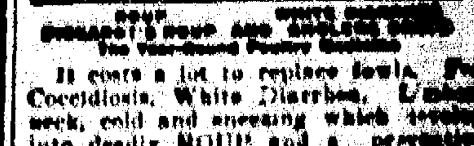

Just do this. For every quart of cleaning water you put in the garbage pail or can, add one tablespoonful of Red Seal Lye. Swash with a long handled mop for a moment, then empty. Rinse if you wish. The pail or can will be cleansed, disinfected, purified. No scouring or scrubbing whatsoever.

Red Seal Lye is necessary because this is the strongest and most effective. Red Seal Lye is 97% pure lye, the fastest acting, strongest and purest made. It melts grease, muck, animal and vegetable matter like snow from a hot stove.

Note: Much of the odor and stickiness which attract flies to garbage pails will be eliminated if each day you shake a little of this same Red Seal Lye on the refuse in the can. Red Seal Lye is so strong and pure it will retard fermentation of refuse and the formation of acids which attack and rust the pail.

Make up your mind you will never scrub another garbage pail. Write down "Red Seal Lye" on your grocery list now, while you are thinking about it.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

TOMORROW is August. It was warm and clear this morning when me and Jubilee woke up, and I let him down and sat on the window sill quite a while in my shirttail, because a bird was singing somewheres and I wanted to hear it. My father says he don't know why a bird sings, and I said I do. My grandfather said all boys and girls know why birds sing, but grown up people mostly have forgot, but he said he never has, and my father said well then, if he had never forgot why a bird sings why does it, and my grandfather said mostly because it has got its belly full of worms. And my ant looked at him and turned up her nose and told him that he is the most disgusting old man she has ever knowed, and my grandfather told her that none of the men had let her get close enough to them for her to get to know them very well.

I got my hat and wanted to skin out before someone could blame me for something but my mother told me to not stir a step out till she had looked at my feet, o she got a basin of warm water and some cast steel soap and washed my sore toe, and took her sizzers and clipped the dead skin off my big toe and put some red medicine on it, just as Mrs. Farrel came running in to see if anyone was being murdered. I have got a good voice. That is what makes me such a good singer.

My father says I will make a better huckster than singer. Red's father is a huckster, and he hucks things around all day and makes a lot of money. I should think a fella could sing and huck too. Then my mother said she was going to lance my stonebruise, and I didn't want her to do it, but she got a darning needle and made me lay face down on the lounge, and she dipped the darning needle in the medicine and I took the longest breath I knowed how, and just then my mother said: "Why, good morning, Younies and Feeble and Maggie, please remain out there in the kitchen till I have lanced Thomas Aristidees stonebruise. He might holler so loud he would scare you." So then I couldn't holler. No he-man is going to holler where ladies can hear him, and as soon as my mother had stuck it, it stopped hurting, and then she wropped it up, and I went out to the kitchen to see what the girls thought of me because I didn't holler, and the girls weren't there at all, and I never did see anyone laugh as hard as Mrs. Farrel did.

My mother told me she was only rehearsing what she would of said to the girls if they had of come. I felt so cheap that if I had caught the Lost Bag of Tripe when I went out I would of busted him. I took my own cows out.
